TOKYO (UPI)—U.S. Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon said yesterday that America's balance sheet in trade with other free world nations was expected to be four billion dollars in the red this year. He hinted at retaliation unless other countries lowered their barriers to dollar imports.

LONDON (CP)—At least two persons were known dead and seven others were missing Tuesday after winds up to 93 miles an hour battered the British Isles along the North Sea coast.

A woman cyclist was killed in East Lothian, Scotland, when a five-ton piece of a tree was blown down on her.

A truck driver at Kincardineshire, Scotland, was killed when gale-force winds hurled his van off the road.

In the northeast of Scotland five men were reported missing in fishing boats.

DR. HAROLD C. UREY

U.S. Space Expert:

Don't Kid, We Lag

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Harold C. Urey said last night the Soviet photograph of the moon's far side was "an outstanding technical achievement" which should spur this country to greater efforts in space.

Urey, a Nobel Prize winner, is one of science's foremost students of the chemistry of the stars and the nature of the moon and planets. He agreed with other scientists here that the Russian photo is not detailed enough to warrant conclusions about the nature of the moon's other side.

But he said it was impossible to exaggerate the technical skill which enabled the Russians to get the picture at all.

"We are not. I think it will be years before we are."

"MARVELOUS"

Other astronomers, who did not want to be quoted by name, also stressed what one called the "marvelous technical accomplishment" manifested by the photograph.

One scientist said the technique used by the Russians could have tremendous military significance.

WORM-LIKE

Urey, who is visiting colleagues here, was particularly interested in the long worm-like marking in the photograph which the Russians said was a mountain range.

"If it is a mountain range," Urey said, "it is very different from any range on the front side. It is, perhaps, the most striking feature of the photograph."

Urey added that "we cannot, however, come to any serious conclusions about the photograph until we get further details."

U.S. scientists hope the Russians will send them clear copies of the photograph for further study. One said he believes they will do that.

This scientist said he and his colleagues were especially impressed with the "attitude control"—the orientation of the satellite so that its lens pointed at the moon—achieved by the Russians. He said they apparently accomplished this with "jet controls."

This scientist called the photograph "a major step forward in the exploration of the solar system."

No Land Available Comox MLA Says

Comox MLA Dan Campbell last night called on the provincial government to send its regional planners into the northern half of Vancouver Island and set up a plan for orderly regional development.

He asked the government to encourage other resource use, as well as forestry which now dominates the area.

Premier Bennett has set 1960 as target date for a start on a north Island road, but "there is not one acre of land available there on which to place a tourist resort or any other business," Mr. Campbell said.

He said practically every bit of land in the northern half of the Island is held as forested area, either in private or public forest.

BUILD OWN HOME

"Even loggers can't obtain property of their own on which to build their own homes," he said. "At the moment no community could be developed except under company sponsorship. The basic problem is crown grants for any other use but mining and forestry are difficult, if not impossible to obtain."

He charged the big timber interests with adopting a "lord of the manor type of attitude." "This area differs little from the southern half of the Island and therefore one resource user should not dominate its development," Mr. Campbell said.

He called upon the government to release some of its crown land from forest reserves and make it available for settlement and diversified development.

RELEASING LOTS

A spokesman for the lands department said the government now is releasing a few lots of crown land in the Port Hardy area so residents may lease them for private dwelling purposes.

"A program of multiple use of the region should be encouraged by the provincial government," Mr. Campbell said.

He called for recreational land to be available for both private and public development.

OPPORTUNITY LIMITED

"Opportunity for private enterprise in the area is certainly limited," he added.

"Certainly logging will always be the most important use of the area, but miners, recreation users, fishermen, farmers, plus all the service people who develop businesses in stable areas, should have an opportunity to help in the development of the area," Mr. Campbell said.

He said there is a limited amount of private property in isolated areas around Port Alice and Port Hardy, but it is very limited.

"Although the area is the equal of the south of the Island in its recreation potential, there is no place where private enterprise could place a tourist resort," he said.

40 MILES NEEDED

Mr. Campbell said only 40 miles of new road is needed to open up more than 100 miles of Island. The rest is covered by a network of logging roads. "When is the crown going to establish basic access lines of road communications in the name of the public? When is it going to insist on public access over logging roads such as the Campbell River-Muchealet Arm road, the Nimpkish Valley road, and the Port McNell to Port Alice road?" he asked.

"I think it is more than a coincidence that the timber companies have not been foremost in urging that road connections and stable communities be encouraged. They have not jumped up and down with glee at the thought of development of the north Island," he said.

"In the north Island there is no doubt that if you keep the people out and keep the roads from coming, the problems of the lumber firms will be kept to a minimum," he said.

Hid Under Bed

Little Boys Start Fire And Perish

SUMNER, Wash. (AP)—Two small boys, who apparently set fire to their home while playing with matches and then hid under a bed, were found dead in the charred ruins of the house here Tuesday.

Coroner Dr. Frank James said the victims were Larry Hammerberg, 5, and his brother Danny, 4.

Dr. James said the boys' bodies were found under a bed in an upstairs room. They died of asphyxiation.

The coroner said he believed the boys were hiding under the bed for fear of being discovered after playing with matches which set the front room curtains and sofa afire. Matches were strewn about the area where the fire started, James said.

Resolution Drafted

East, West Set Scene To Disarm

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—East and West Tuesday night agreed on a United Nations resolution calling for complete world disarmament under effective control.

Soviet Bills Double U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The $186,000,000 Soviet budget announced in Moscow looks on the surface to be more than twice as large as the U.S. government's 1960 spending plan for $79,000,000,000. (See also Page 5.)

Knife-Waving Drunk Faces Cuban Trial

HAVANA (AP)—A man who staggered drunkenly toward Prime Minister Fidel Castro with a knife in his hand last week was indicted Tuesday on a charge of attempted assassination.

Roberto Salas Martinez, 44-year-old upholsterer, was arrested in a crowd that had gathered around Castro last Thursday night.

The Soviet Union and Western powers, led by the United States and Britain and including Canada, reached agreement in private sessions on the resolution which will be placed before the UN General Assembly's 82-member political committee today.

Terms of the resolution it does not give its blessing to any particular country's disarmament plan.

All proposals, including the one placed before the General Assembly Sept. 18 by Premier Khrushchev and the one outlined the day before by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, will be submitted to a new 10-nation conference to begin in Geneva early next year. Those plans also will be submitted to the 82-nation UN disarmament commission.

Besides Russia, the U.S., Britain and Canada, sponsors include France, Italy and Brazil. A U.S. spokesman said many other nations are expected to become co-sponsors, including India.

The main negotiators in the behind-the-scenes talks were Vasily Kuznetsov, Russia's deputy foreign minister who took the first initiative, and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Charles S. A. Ritchie, Canada's permanent ambassador to the UN, took part in talks among the Western countries.

806,978 Barrels Down The Hatch

OTTAWA (UPI)—Thirsty Canadians downed 806,978 barrels of beer in September, the Dominion Brewers' Association reported yesterday.

The national trade association of the brewing industry disclosed that beer sales for the first nine months of 1959 were 6,947,598 barrels compared with 6,395,905 in the same period last year, an increase of some 8.6 per cent.

Halloween Firecracker

First Victim In Hospital

Halloween is still four days away—but already a small boy is in Royal Jubilee Hospital, threatened with loss of sight in one eye. Cause—one firecracker.

He is nine-year-old Larry Lyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lyne, 3204 Kingsley. His father yesterday was at sea with the navy, but his mother had a Halloween message for parents and children of Greater Victoria:

"Keep your children and firecrackers, or other fireworks apart," she urged. "Make the message strong."

Larry and his brother and sister have never been allowed to have their own firecrackers or fireworks. Their mother and a neighbor would pool resources and put on a fireworks show—no firecrackers—for the youngsters on Halloween.

"Monday," said Mrs. Lyne, "Larry was on his way home from school when he found one firecracker. He brought it home, and got a book of matches and wooden penholder and took them outside."

"He took the nib out of the pen, and inserted the firecracker in the hole, then lit it, expecting it would fly away."

"It didn't."

"The firecracker exploded in his hand, splitting the penholder. A splinter of wood and some of the powder flew into Larry's eye, cutting it badly."

"We won't know until tomorrow how he'll make out. 'Don't let this, or anything like it, happen to others this year.'"

Politicians, accountants, bankers, doctors and dentists, actors, lawyers, construction executives, architects, journalists including TV, hotelmen and pub keepers, shopkeepers, and civil servants.

Lodge Tells Reds

Arms Ban Scheme 'Vague'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Soviet deputy foreign minister Vasily Kuznetsov yesterday agreed to accept stage-by-stage disarmament controls and said Russia's position was "crystal clear."

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge retorted immediately in the General Assembly's main political committee that the world wanted to know precisely what controls the Kremlin had in mind for Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for total disarmament within four years.

"The essential element of inspection and control is that it be established in detail under conditions that assure its effectiveness," Lodge said. "It is the specific element of inspection and the specific element of control that are crucial, not statements of general policy on this subject."

"The position of the Soviet Union therefore, is not — to use Mr. Kuznetsov's phrase — 'crystal clear,' far from it. We do not know exactly what controls the Soviet Union has in mind for its new proposal."

Tuesday's reopening of the Geneva nuclear test ban talks showed no sign of change in the position of either side despite hopes that President Eisenhower's talks with Khrushchev might have led to agreement.

Ambassador James Wadsworth renewed the U.S. appeal to Russia at Geneva for joint scientific studies of underground nuclear explosions to assure a foolproof control system for a nuclear test ban.

Curfew Bylaw Illegal Commission Contends

Victoria police commission yesterday voted to refer the curfew issue back to city council with the declaration the bylaw is illegal.

Council had asked the commission to request city police to enforce the curfew to keep juveniles off the street at night.

"Our contention is that the bylaw is unworkable and in fact we question the legality of part of it," Commissioner William Hamilton said at the commission meeting.

"The bylaw states that, if a child under 16 years is caught loitering on the streets twice in the same night, he shall be taken home by a constable."

Defence Spending Frozen

Record Soviet Budget

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government announced yesterday a record high budget for 1960 and said defence spending will be frozen at this year's level. Funds for scientific development were increased 15.4 per cent.

Total income projected for 1960—the second year of a seven-year plan in which the Russians propose to push their production ahead of that of the United States—is 772,100,000,000 rubles.

The ruble is worth about 25 cents.

Science Funds Increased

At the official rate, the money openly earmarked for the Soviet army, navy and air force totals $24,025,000,000. Other forms of military spending are hidden in civilian appropriations and cannot be estimated. Research on military projects comes under science and education. Construction of arms plants is included in capital investment spending.

"... This commission does not propose to instruct our officers to commit illegal acts."

"I would therefore move that this commission recommend to the city council that they either amend the bylaw or rescind it altogether and pass a new one, which would be enforceable by the police department."

Photographing the Moon

PHOTOGRAPHS of the hidden side of the moon, which never yet has been seen by man, give the Russian scientific team which designed Lunik III and launched it into the mathematically precise orbit to accomplish its purpose another distinctive first in the field of scientific inquiry. The surprising result, that the farther side of the moon is relatively unpeppered and almost featureless by comparison with the side turned to the earth, may bring many questions while it supplies its answer on that score. Astrophysicists will want to know what accounted for the extreme disturbances on one side of the moon and the relative calm on the other at the creation of the earth's luminary.

To the average individual it may make little difference that the moon has "two faces" and that they are not alike. He will be impressed that a rocket, with its measuring instruments, was sent out on a long journey and returned to give its electronic report. The result, in wire photos and reprints, has now been published around the world. The success of Lunik III has been acknowledged universally in the scientific field. The daring will project man-carrying flights to the moon, jump-off platforms into outer space and so forth. The cautious, and scientists are cautious, will be happy over the accession of new knowledge, and puzzled by the legion of questions it in turn will open up.

One may understand the Russians, elated at a distinctive and indeed a unique achievement, giving Muscovite names to the craters, "seas" and other features picked out on the hidden side of the moon. To perpetuate the names of the pioneering team was legitimate and has long precedent. Half of a moon filled with Russian geography, however, is not perhaps as likely to stand the test of the centuries. If heavenly bodies are used to carry political banners in human practice in time there may not be enough stars in the sky to go once around the waxing and waning civilizations of mankind.

The return, and eventual dissolution, of Lunik III nonetheless will complete an epochal event in our times.

How Has He Done It?

FROM London comes word that Sir Winston Churchill has laid down his pen—and what a pen. Books have poured from him all during his life as though he had nothing else to do but write—history, essays, biography, even one novel; all of them touched with matchless powers of expression, and capped by the Nobel Prize for literature in 1953.

His literary output exceeds forty volumes, enough to embellish the reputation of any author who devoted himself to writing alone. For Churchill however his writings have been merely complementary to his other manifold roles, and that is the wonder of this remarkable man. These books were produced in the midst of a career without parallel in modern times, during a life filled to the brim with military and political activity and embracing the highest offices of state and his incomparable war leadership.

Churchill has been soldier, painter, cabinet minister, world statesman, parliamentarian for fifty years, and the most dynamic figure in British history for centuries. How has he accomplished so much? Genius is not explainable, and he is a throwback to earlier periods when men of his class and type exploited varied powers and talents. Even so however the answer must lie in application.

It is probably safe to say that Churchill never spent an idle hour. He developed his native gifts by assiduous toil and endeavor. One doubts that, unlike so many lesser men, he ever sat down simply to laze time away. That for him would be the supreme waste, and even for those of vastly smaller powers and stature there is a moral in his life for our example.

Now approaching his 85th birthday the venerable Sir Winston has done with most of his myriad activities. As he lays down his scintillating pen however he leaves as a legacy an enriching written record for mankind to ponder. This great output of literature was comparatively a sideline in a life devoted to public service and the cause of fundamental human freedom.

The Debt Habit

SINCE the economy of Canada is founded on credit it could perhaps be argued that early introduction to the workings of the credit system would be of advantage to those about to take their place in the world. Nevertheless, it is with feelings of profound shock and misgiving that one reads of the opinion expressed in Ottawa that teenagers should be encouraged to open credit accounts.

This advice to business operators was given by the manager of the National Retail Merchants' Association's credit management division, who pointed out that credit accounts for teenagers are an ideal way to get new and younger customers. It cannot have been thrown out as some grim kind of jest, because the speaker went on to point out that the "teenage market" was growing rapidly and that teenagers had millions of dollars to spend as they pleased.

The adult nowadays who pays cash is regarded as something of an anachronism, which probably he is. It is common if not yet quite universal practice for young couples to enter matrimony with a mountain of debt, owing outright virtually nothing but what they stand up in—if that. Income is measured in relation to how much credit it can command; but because in some quarters credit can be obtained far too easily, many young couples in their inexperience assume a burden of debt beyond anything they can hope to sustain.

The virtue of thrift may have lost most of its meaning in recent years, but one can regard only with horror the thought of young people becoming enslaved to the debt habit even before they have reached maturity.

Interpreting the News

Chinese Stand Puzzling

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

RED China's surly attitude toward India in their border dispute is new evidence of a foreign policy that is causing considerable mystification.

Even Moscow seems to be baffled and disturbed by Communist China's probing and shooting along the Indian frontier, particularly in view of Indian Prime Minister Nehru's long-standing attempts at peaceful co-existence.

At the United Nations, most Western diplomats freely admit they are puzzled at Peking's thinking. A few will go so far as to say it appears just plain stupid. Many say the truculent Chinese attitude is humiliating to the Indian leader.

Nehru, in appealing for calm and reason, is obviously trying to keep things from becoming worse along the 1,200-mile Indian-Chinese border, where clashes between patrols of the two countries have been occurring in disputed territory for two months. Last month Moscow suggested that Peking and New Delhi try to reach a friendly agreement.

At the UN recently India supported a move aimed at seating Red China in the world body, replacing Nationalist China—a move that was soundly defeated because of Peking's suppression of the Tibetan people.

The general assembly condemned Red China, in effect if not in name, for its Tibetan action, although India's V. K.

Krishna Menon held it was a domestic issue which should not even have been debated by the UN.

Menon, who is Indian defence minister, did say that India would fight the Communist Chinese if necessary to defend its territory, but his words were mild and carefully avoided a challenging tone.

Menon also conceded there had been "troubles" in Tibet, not only now but in years past as well. Changes had to take place, and India would like to see them happen peacefully and "with less cruelty." Nevertheless, "one cannot argue non-interference by interfering."

Menon said there could be no contention that India had shown indifference to the events in Tibet. India had given refuge to the Buddhist god-king, the Dalai Lama, "as was our right but not our obligation," and to thousands of other Tibetans.

Not only India but many other Asian and African countries abstained from voting on the Tibetan issue, but a notable exception was Malaysia, which co-sponsored the resolution along with Ireland.

Rejecting the argument that the Tibetan subject should be left alone lest it disturb coming negotiations among the great powers, Malaysia said it could not "stand with arms folded to watch some shameful and flagrant acts of debauchery against humanity."

"And you stand there asking me to switch you to night-work because your wife snores!"

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

NO picture of Nelson shows him with a black patch but every schoolboy knows that during his career the famous admiral lost an eye. It is not the least of his merits indeed that sans an eye and sans an arm he should have survived to become the greatest sailor of them all.

Now comes a missive from Major Longstaff, Victoria's well-known naval historian, to upset the legend and prove that Nelson never lost an eye!

Last week's mention of Trafalgar Day caused the major to dip into his voluminous naval library and forward the true facts of the matter, as gleaned from "New Chronicles of the Life of Lord Nelson."

Since it is disconcerting to have a favorite fancy dispelled I am half-wishing Major Longstaff had refrained. What does this revelation do to the immortal story of Nelson's telescope and his blind eye, a lesson to all and sundry thereafter on how to disobey an order?

Let the "Chronicles" tell us.

"At the battle of Copenhagen, it will be remembered, the commander-in-chief, Admiral Sir Hyde Parker, signalled to the inshore squadron to retire. The signal was reported to Nelson who, on the quarter deck of the Elephant and in the presence of his officers, raised his glass to read the signal himself. Had one eye-socket been empty or covered by a black patch the raising of his spy-glass thereto would have been self-confessed absurdity.

"But as the right eye and the left were to the ordinary observer indistinguishable, the positive assertion might prove that Nelson was in one particular less expert than his signal lieutenant; but was certainly not an outward mark of disrespect to the flag officer commanding-in-chief."

"Those who read the story today should remind themselves that the officers of the Elephant had no biographies of Nelson insisting that he had lost an eye. When they looked him in the face they saw two eyes as like one another as they could be. If one had ceased, or almost ceased, to function there was no outward indication of the fact."

Nelson's own recorded experience is cited to dispel any doubts. When he claimed compensation his title was challenged at the "Sick and Hurt" office because he produced no medical certificate to support his claim. His eye was examined and no defect was noticeable.

Nelson didn't forget this example of red tape. When later he claimed compensation for the loss of his right arm he brought with him a surgeon's certificate to prove that the limb in question was actually missing!

As for his eye injury, this is what the authors of the "New Chronicles" say:

"Nelson was ashore (at Calvi in 1794) in the advanced battery, when a shot struck the parapet at his feet and the fragments of the splintered stone were flung upwards. Nelson felt the blood stream down his face, and his right eye was cut. He was assured that the wounds were superficial only and all would soon be well. But the sight of the injured eye grew gradually worse and in a matter of months was so much impaired that it enabled him to distinguish light from darkness and that was all. Later in life the injury occasioned him considerable pain in both eyes."

The authors conclude that modern surgery in a similar case might have removed the injured eye, but such drastic remedy was not recommended in George III's reign, and so "Nelson retained both eyes to the last."

Still and all he did have a "blind" eye, I would say.

The Child's Charter

Tortuous Routes of Bureaucracy

By PETER COUROPOULOS,
from United Nations

NINE full years were spent to complete the Draft Declaration of the Rights of the Child before sending it for approval to the United Nations General Assembly.

The recently drafted document by the Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee of the UN contains a list of principles, self-evident for any civilized society, to guide anyone concerned in ensuring a happy childhood to every child.

A brief review of the history that lies behind these principles may give a typical idea of a bureaucracy at work.

A draft declaration had already been adopted in 1950 by the UN Social Commission. That document was transmitted to the Economic and Social Council, which in its turn requested the Commission on Human Rights to consider it. The commission placed the item on its agenda in 1951, but considered it only in 1957.

The document travelled from the commission to all governments of member states, together with a request to have their comments by Dec. 1, 1957. Some time later the Economic and Social Council resolved that "the comments of governments on the draft declaration may be transmitted until Dec. 1, 1958."

When the commission received the replies it considered them and transmitted its observations to the Economic and Social Council on April 8 of this year. Finally, the General Assembly decided at the beginning of this session to allocate this item for consideration to the Social and Humanitarian Committee and the present draft declaration was completed.

All that remains now to be done is the formal approval of the General Assembly.

The proposed Children's Charter is only a declaration of principles and leaves it to others to decide on their implementation. The General Assembly, it is stated, "calls upon parents, upon men and women as individuals and upon voluntary organizations, local authorities and national governments to recognize and strive for the observance of these rights."

The child shall be given opportunities and facilities to enable him to develop in a healthy and normal manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity.

The child shall enjoy the benefits of social security.

He shall, wherever possible, grow up in the care and under the responsibility of his parents.

Society and public authorities, shall have the duty to extend particular care to children without a family and those without adequate means of support.

The child is entitled to receive education, which shall be free and compulsory at least in the elementary stages.

The child shall not be admitted to employment before an appropriate minimum age.

He should be brought up "in a spirit of understanding, tolerance, friendship among peoples, peace and universal brotherhood, and in full consciousness that his energy and talents should be devoted to the service of his fellow men."

Such principles do not make great demands, on the whole, upon the most advanced nations. Legislation and traditions have already superseded them, in spite of the fact that juvenile delinquency is a growing problem every day.

But they do make demands upon the under-developed countries that do not have the material conditions nor the social possibilities to implement many of these principles.

The Children's Charter, therefore, constitutes only a generally acceptable minimum of obligations to the children.

It is significant to recall in this respect that whenever any concrete wording was proposed in the drafting committee, it would unmistakably bring up negative reactions.

The Italian delegate, for example, proposed once that "the maladjusted child, including the delinquent child, shall be accorded humane treatment." To this, the member from Afghanistan answered that in his view the under-developed countries have a "great deal" of difficulty in understanding such a proposal.

The draft declaration may therefore be accepted as a good step forward, even though it was timid and required almost a decade to be completed.

Emotional Blocks

Troubles With Reading

(From The Edmonton Journal)

A MONTREAL eye specialist says present teaching methods are a prime factor in causing reading difficulties.

His target is the "word recognition" method by which so many children nowadays are introduced to reading. He regards it as unsound. In his view, it is fine for the so-called "natural" reader; and he implies that it presents no great difficulties for the beginners who are sufficiently mature on entering school to be ready to learn to read. It is, however, a stumbling block for those who are not ready to read; and as a result of falling behind in reading they may also develop "emotional blocks" against learning.

The net conclusions of Dr. John V. V. Nichols, of Royal Victoria Hospital and McGill University in Montreal, are that three out of four children can learn to read with ease, probably by any method; and that of the remaining quarter, three out of four will learn to read well if presented with modifications of current teaching methods and if given enough time and also protection from emotional stress.

His views apparently are based on a study of two hundred cases of reading difficulties. Dr. Nichols is an eye specialist but he found that eye defects are only contributing factors in reading difficulties and do not cause them.

His views accord with experience in many families which have a "natural" reader or two and one or more children who were immature or slow at the outset. With the latter, many a mother, compelled to act because the school and the teacher would not depart from unintelligently rigid insistence upon "word recognition," has found that persistent coaching in phonetic analysis, combined with patient encouragement, will bring success in time. This, however, may take the whole of the first year and part or all of the second year in school.

The justifiable objection of mothers who have carried this burden is that the schools are established and the teachers are paid to do the job. They should do it, especially in an age when educators are sharply aware of the great differences in ability and in "readiness" that exist in a beginners' class.

The children are far more important than any method. It is high time rigid insistence upon beginning instruction in reading with "word recognition" should cease. Let the teacher follow the best combination of methods suited to her class and to individual pupils, as able teachers have done in the past regardless of official directives.

Who Was Confused?

(From The Calgary Albertan)

CANADIAN Communists have decided that it is time they ceased hiding under a false name. At a convention in Toronto recently they decided they would no longer be known as the Labor Progressive Party and would now be the Communist Party of Canada.

One reason given for the change was that with a "bold, new program" the party should be bold enough to use its correct name. The other reason was even funnier if there is anything funnier than Reds claiming to have a bold new program. It was that there had been in the past some confusion in voters' minds between the Labor Progressive Party and the Progressive Conservative Party, since they both used the word "progressive" in their titles.

Considering the overwhelming superiority in numbers of Conservatives over Communists in Canada it would seem that the odds would be for the Labor Progressives to have obtained the most advantage out of any possible errors at the polls. Perhaps they should have left well enough alone.

OF GREGORY CLARK

ONE of the absurd sights in the home of an acquaintance of mine who collects butterflies, keeps a three-foot alligator in his cellar, owns first editions of all the works of Rudyard Kipling, including the magazine articles, and has a six-foot telescope on his roof for looking at the moon and stars, is his black Labrador retriever lying beside the rocking chair.

In the living room is this big wide rocking chair. And a Labrador retriever is no lap dog. This one weighs 70 pounds, and while not fat, has plenty of loose tissue about him. He has a long lively tail, thick at the base and tapered, the ideal "otter tail" of the breed. He is a sprightly dog, and when he lies down he does so with a thump. Legs, tail, all of a dump. And he goes around the back of the rocking chair, gives a deep sigh of contentment, and flops down right alongside the right rear rocker.

"Look out!" cries everyone who sees it. "Don't rock on the dog! His tail is under the rocker..."

He has been rocked on dozens, maybe hundreds of times. His wild yowls as leg or tail is pinched by the rocker are a familiar sound in my friend's home.

"You'd think," I said, "the darn fool would know enough to keep away from the rocking chair..."

"It isn't the rocking chair he's fond of," says my friend, going over and sitting in the rocker. "He just likes to be near the kind of people who like to sit in rocking chairs."

Don't we all?

CHARLES SKINNER

Divers Find Body, Car in Sea 80 Feet Below Dallas Cliffs

A man reported missing a week ago today was found yesterday—dead in his car, underwater in the sea off the foot of Cook Street at Dallas Road
—the result of a spectacular 100-mile-an-hour plunge over an 80-foot cliff.

The dead man was Charles W. Skinner, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Skinner, 121 Maddock East.

From the south curb of Dallas at the foot of Cook Street marks in the grass led to the cliff edge above the beach where there was a hole in the gorse.

Police said the car appeared to have sailed into space, probably lit in the water, somersaulted and skidded on its roof underwater to a point about 75 feet from shore.

When this happened is not known, but nothing was noticed until yesterday morning.

At 9:15 a.m. city police were called by Neil Smith, 635 Heffernan, who said he had noticed the tracks in the grass, and the hole in the gorse.

CHROME GLINTED
When police arrived, they spotted the car's chrome gleaming faintly in 12 feet of water offshore.

A call was put in to the navy for skindivers, and LS
Robert Thompson, AB Donald Moriarty and AB Joseph Love swam out to find the car on its roof.

From the back seat they freed the body of Skinner, and brought it to shore.

Next the divers secured a cable from a wrecker on the cliff to the car's axle, and the vehicle was dragged up to the beach.

Force of impact when the car struck tore the motor loose.

Wildcat Strikes Attacked

LONDON (AP)—British labor unions announced a war on wildcat strikes yesterday as new walkouts hampered services ranging from trains to tugboats.

Leaders of the Trade Union
Congress called for a government-backed investigation into the unofficial strikes.

Latest of these stopped restaurant-car service on several state-owned trains Monday.

Nearly 600 cooks and waiters quit because a new rail service may take away some of their best-tipping customers.
The new service has been given to the British Pullman Company, which is privately owned.

Another strike tied up 27
tugs at Liverpool. Some 600 men walked out because one of the tug captains had been demoted for smoking on deck.

How It Was Done

Moon Itself Less Interest

MOSCOW (UPI)—Details of how the Russians took the pictures and transmitted them back to earth has generated as much or more interest than the photographs themselves.
It was considered a remarkable technical feat.

Not only did Soviet scientists turn the camera eye of Lunik III toward the back of the moon from more than a quarter of a million miles away, but the films automatically were developed and sent back to earth in the same way a television film is transmitted.

An automatic device changed lenses, switching openings—meaning some pictures were under-exposed and some over-exposed but some just right.

The camera had to be shielded from cosmic rays, heat and cold.

A scanning device much like that used in television relayed the pictures to Soviet scientists through radio impulses which were picked up accurately over a distance up to 292,045 miles, according to Tass.

Prescription Insurance Proposed

VANCOUVER (CP)—The
B.C. Pharmaceutical Association has decided to ask its health insurance committee to investigate the possibility of starting a prepaid prescription insurance service in B.C. on a pilot basis. The plan would be tried out in a representative community and, if successful, be expanded to cover the whole province.

If introduced, the prescription plan would probably operate along the lines of the Medical Services Association plan in B.C.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain
And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching.
Thousands have been relieved right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthesia or surgery of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment, with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores.
Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Nude Tribe Abandons Jungle

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Twenty naked Indians from a tribe that has been hiding from white men for 400 years emerged recently from the Paraguayan jungle to put themselves under the white man's jurisdiction, a government official announced Tuesday. The Indians—10 men, 6 women and 4 children—appeared at the farm of Manuel Periera at the settlement of Torin in Abai district. Torin is in north-west Paraguay near the lower section of the vast Amazon jungle. Scientists here said the Indian tribe, the Guayaquies, is a primitive jungle group that shuns all contact with white men.

First Scoring Title For Jack Parker

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jackie Parker, spindly-legged quarterback-halfback with Edmonton Eskimos, has captured his first Western Interprovincial Football Union scoring title since joining Eks from Mississippi State in 1954.

Although he missed four games of the 16-game schedule due to injuries, the 27-year-old back chalked up a total of 109 points on seven touchdowns, 31 converts and 12 field goals.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show that Parker finished with a 13-point margin over end Ernie Pitts of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who had 96 points on 16 touchdowns on passes—a WIFU record.

Place-kicking tackle Doug Brown of Calgary Stampede, formerly with Victoria Navy, wound up in third place behind Parker and Pitts with 83 points as he led the league in converts, 37, and field goals, 14. Brown also booted four singles, and was top Canadian player in the scoring.

Biggest gain during the final stages of the regular schedule was made by Ferd Burket of Riders, a newcomer from East Oklahoma State, who scored five touchdowns Monday night. Burket climbed from far back in the standings to 14th place with a 46-point total.

Minister Turns Sports Writer

Little 'Love' on Football Field

WINNIPEG (CP)—A rural Manitoba clergyman writing a sport column for the Winnipeg Tribune says Monday night's rugged football game between Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers gave "precious little evidence" of the modern generation's concern with the thought of love.

Rev. Ralph Clark, minister of the United Church at Hamiota, Man., made the comment Tuesday in the first of a week-long series of daily columns he is to write in the Tribune. His writing is the upshot of an argument with Tribune sports editor Jack Matheson over commercialized Sunday sport.

Matheson spent last week as Mr. Clark's assistant in Hamiota, 150 miles west of Winnipeg. Sunday, he defended Sunday sport in a sermon to the United Church congregation.

Mr. Clark's first assignment as a sports writer was to attend the final regular Western In-terprovincial Football Union game here won by Saskatchewan 37-40. He commented on the bruising game both clubs played despite the fact that the Roughriders were certain to finish in the league cellar and Bombers had clinched first place.

"For a generation that seems obsessed with the thought of love, there was precious little evidence of it at the stadium Monday night as the Riders met the Bombers in a football game that was strictly for nothing."

"Maybe they should play for nothing all the time. This game was one of the best I've seen through any medium over the past few seasons."

"The Roughies were playing for next year's jobs and their own esteem, and they surely lived up to their name — rough."

Turning to the No. 1 question mark in Bombers' prospects of defending their Canadian title, he said:

"The game also answered the question of one K. Ploen's ability to quarterback the squad. The fickle side of sports buffs baffles me. Only last year we were crying because Kenny wasn't quarterbacking the team. This year we are because he is."

Esks' Smith Sets Mark

REGINA (CP)—Halfback Joe-Bob Smith of the Edmonton Eskimos broke a Western Interprovincial Football Union pass receiving record in a game here Saturday against the Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Smith caught six passes for 83 yards to give him a total of 1,108 yards on passes for the season, surpassing the old mark of 1,094 yards set in 1952 by end Bob Shaw of the Calgary Stampede.

Ploen, who called the signals for Winnipeg in 1957 and until he was injured early in the 1958 season, recently moved from a defensive position to replace injured quarterback Jim Van Pelt, the individual star of Bombers' Grey Cup victory over Hamilton last year.

Mr. Clark said that after the three-hour stint needed to write his first column, "I am sure that I will be only too

Goes to town on a gallon

It's wonderful what a new Ford Falcon can do with a gallon of gas. It zips over hills, hums down highways and doesn't ask for a new gallon until it's carried you over 30 miles. Here's how. Strong, single-unit construction keeps weight under 2,400 lbs. This is light work for the Falcon's new 90-hp Six, even with the whole family and all their luggage aboard. Light work, light appetite—you get performance with real economy. The beautiful Falcon makes sense in many other ways. Plenty of room for six, big 23-cu. ft. trunk. Easy parking, plus the ride and "feel" of a much larger, heavier car. See the Falcon at your Ford Dealer's and take it out for a drive. You'll be delighted.

50-Unit Campsite, Big Picnic Park To Be Started at Bamberton Beach

Work on construction of 50 camping units and a large picnic area at Sandy Beach Bamberton Park will start Monday, a spokesman for the provincial recreation department said yesterday.

He said about 30 men will move in on the job which will be carried out as a winter work project. Most of the members of the construction crew will be men already employed by the parks branch on other projects which are closing down because of winter conditions in the interior.

Another 30 men will also start work Monday on construction of an 80-camping unit park at Alice Lake, near Squamish.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said yesterday winter works projects are starting immediately as the result of a telegram he received yesterday from federal Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton stating the federal government will again contribute on a dollar-for-dollar basis in campsite and picnic area construction.

Last year the federal government offered to contribute some $2,000,000 across Canada on a share basis for park construction.

30-Man Gang Moves In To Begin Work Monday

struction and the B.C. government took up a lion's share of that offer.

Mr. Hamilton, in his telegram to Mr. Westwood, did not state the amount of money available this year, but did say a letter would follow explaining the terms.

"We have kept some money for this purpose and are ready to swing into action immediately to take up the federal offer and to provide winter work," Mr. Westwood said.

As soon as the Bamberton Park is completed the provincial parks branch plans to move its construction crew to Smith's Landing Park on Sprout Lake to construct a new parking lot, improve the picnic area and put in some camping units.

More camping units and a better picnic area at Stamp Falls Park will be attended to by the same crew.

In the spring it is planned to start on a 100-campsite provincial park at Chemainus Pool.

Fifty-acre Bamberton Park was donated to the province by the B.C. Cement Company. Plans call for picnic tables and a cement tile change house on the beach.

Because of the difficulties occasioned by the topography of the site no boat launching facilities will be provided, but campers or picnickers could approach the park from the water.

A special area will be marked off for swimming and water skiing will be forbidden in that area.

A trail from the campsite to the beach will be about 200 yards long, but the picnic parking area will be just above the beach.

It is planned to have Bamberton Beach park open to the public by May or June.

Plowing Test Slated Saturday

DUNCAN—The popular Cowichan plowing match that was cancelled last week because of rain is scheduled to be held Saturday.

Cowichan band chief Elwood Modeste will officially open the match at 1 p.m. The actual contests start at 10 a.m. in a field owned by Hugo Tews, behind the Canoe Store in Koksilah.

LCB Chief To Meet Hotelmen

The five licences of the Nanaimo beer parlors which have been closed down by the Liquor Control Board will meet with LCB commission Col. Donald McGugan on Thursday, a week after their licences were cancelled.

The beer parlors—the Nanaimo, Plaza, Somerset, Wellington and Lotus—were closed down for unsatisfactory operation, but it is understood they had refused to sell the small 10 cent glasses of beer and had insisted on serving 20 cent glasses, which contain less beer than two small glasses.

42,453 Attend Art Gallery

Art Gallery of Greater Victoria had a greater attendance than had been hoped for during the past year, curator Colin Graham said after last night's annual meeting.

Attendance of 42,453 represented an increase of more than 14,000 from the previous year. Of the overall figure, 17,100 admissions were accounted for by persons attending lectures, concerts, art classes and meetings there.

Although the budget was balanced with a surplus of $466, the treasurer noted that the gallery's income must be further increased during the coming year because of expected operation costs of the newly completed Ker wing and expected increases in overall operating costs.

Though cost of membership jumped from $5 to $7.50 during the year, membership jumped 15 per cent, from 1,092 to 1,254, giving the gallery the highest per capita membership of any public gallery in Canada.

Mrs. Ina Unthoff, art critic for the Colonist, who retired after 13 years on the gallery's board of directors, was presented with a life membership to the gallery.

Dr. Robert Stark, as president, heads the new board of directors which includes two new members, Lawrie Wallace and Brent Alley. Other members of the board are Mrs. Lloyd McKenzie, Cmdr. P. F. Fairfull, Mrs. R. S. Conn, V. G. Finhorn, Mrs. F. H. Hawkins, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Mrs. Gordon Jennings, L. P. Jones, Mrs. Eliza Mayhew, Mrs. W. C. Mearns, Charles Nelles, Alex McEwen, Robert Harvey, Coun. G. K. Sammon, Hugh Stephen, Brian Tobin and Bart Carson. Mrs. R. C. Anderson is the women's committee representative.

Movie Faces Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The army and air force are considering banning the movie, "They Came to Cordura," from military post theatres on grounds it disparages the medal of honor—the nation's highest military award.

Spokesmen for both services said that no official decision had been reached as yet, but that the ban was under active consideration.

The navy said it would refuse to go along with any military boycott of the film. It plans to buy copies of the movie for presentation at naval bases and on ships.

The picture's setting is the Mexican border in 1916 during the expedition against Pancho Villa. It stars Gary Cooper and Rita Hayworth. Reviewers have described it as a lousy entertainment which pulls few punches.

In the film, Cooper, playing an army major, selects five men to receive the medal of honor so this country will have ready-made heroes when it enters the First World War. The story deals with his troubles with the five soldiers.

'Adopt Press Code'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Philip Cortney, president of the Coty cosmetics firm, said yesterday that television advertisers should adopt the code used in newspapers in keeping their hands off programs.

He noted that businessmen who purchase advertising in newspapers exercise no control over the editorial and entertainment sections.

He said TV sponsors should control only their commercials, to prevent a repetition of "the shameful TV quiz hoax."

Negro Sues Over Motel Refusal

CALGARY (CP)—Lawyer for a Negro pressing a damage action against a Calgary motel owner argued Tuesday that the motel, since it provides kitchen facilities for guests, is a common inn.

Ted King, president of the Alberta branch of the Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is seeking $500 from Jack Barclay on the grounds Mr. Barclay refused him accommodation at his motel.

Lawyer C. A. G. Palmer claimed Barclay's Motel is a common inn despite the fact that it does not serve food.

Mr. King claims he was refused a room last spring because of the color of his skin. He said he was ushered from the hotel office despite a sign which indicated the motel had a vacancy.

In Principle Only

Plan for Peninsula Approved by Saanich

Plan of the Capital Region Planning Board for future development of Saanich Peninsula was given approval in principle last night by the Saanich council lands and planning committee.

"We think it's a good plan for our rough guidance but it won't be binding," said committee member Reeve George Chatterton, who made the acceptance motion.

Two suggested amendments in the plan were included in the approval motion: one regarding subdivision control, and the other, commercial development of the municipal yard.

Voting in favor were Councillors Stanley Murphy, chairman, and Harold Todd; opposing was Coun. Joseph Casey. "If you're going in where you can be outvoted," said Coun. Casey, "then you're losing your local autonomy entirely... but I have no objection to the plan."

Reeve Chatterton pointed out that a similar plan worked out fine in Edmonton after the city worked within it for a few years before giving it outright approval.

"And I do believe this plan will be adopted before long," Coun. Casey said. "I'm surprised the reeve should quote Edmonton after some of the planning scandals there."

Coun. Leslie Passmore, not a committee member, served notice he would make a motion to council that "we consult the Capital Region Planning Board whenever something comes up—but not to agree in principle."

Coun. Ainslie Worthington said "I kind of agree with Brahm Wiesman (who attended the meeting). It is not binding. It's a guide, and we do need some guidance."

Brain Surgery

Malahat Crash Victim Critical but Improved

Condition of Barbara Joan Lawton, 19, of 1050 Southgate, critically injured early Sunday in a Malahat crash which killed two Victoria men, was described yesterday as "slightly improved."

"However," doctors said, "the critical phase will probably continue for the next day or so."

Miss Lawton underwent brain surgery Sunday after being transferred from King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan to Royal Jubilee Hospital here.

In addition to the head injury, Miss Lawton suffered two broken legs, possible internal injuries, and multiple cuts, abrasions and bruises.

A companion, Jacqueline Mackay, also of 1050 Southgate, is in fairly good condition at the Duncan hospital. She sustained deep thigh cuts, a broken nose and multiple minor cuts.

Chris Morgan, 22, of 406 Quebec, another occupant of the same car, is in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is being treated for head and hand cuts and shoulder injuries.

Killed instantly in the crash were Ernest George Gibson, 20, of 1919 Argyle, driver of the car in which the three survivors were passengers; and Edgar Douglas Smith, 42, of 4000 Martha Crescent, who was driving alone.

Planet at Mercy of Martians If Arms Banned, UN Warned

UNITED NATIONS—Portugal has warned that the concept of total disarmament raised the "far-fetched—perhaps not absurd" possibilities that Martians would take over the world.

Portuguese ambassador Dr. Vasco Vieira Garin told the UN "the concept of disarmament raises many a delicate question, not excluding the hypothetical defence of our planet itself."

"In such an emergency the security forces of our world, including the Soviet detachment, would cut a poor figure against Martians or the like, if we had only, figuratively speaking, kitchen knives and pocket slings to defend ourselves," he said.

DENVER — Sen. John Kennedy has "about as much chance of being elected president of the United States as I do," says teamster boss James Hoffa.

HOLLYWOOD — Errol Flynn's sweetheart Beverly Aadland, 17, says she is not pregnant. "We wanted a baby very much," she said, "but I learned I will not have one."

TEHRAN — Shah of Iran celebrated his 40th birthday here thousands of miles away from Fara Diba, 21, the girl who soon will become his queen. She was shopping for her trousseau in Paris.

COVINGTON, Ky. — Comedienne Martha Raye, married six times, says she wouldn't try it again. "But I'm not bitter," she said in a blast at her sixth husband, Bob O'Shea, who has filed for separation and for payment of $21,000 he claims "due for services rendered."

Victoria Concert Gave Cossacks 7,000th Hit

By BERT BINNY
They sang about the plains and about the past, about boatmen and about fleas. And they did it all in a fine, rousing style. One of the reasons could have been that this was their 7,000 plus hit concert, given through the years in 65 different countries. This was the famous General Platoff Don Cossacks

Choir which appeared last night before a good house at Central Junior High School. They certainly inspire great confidence — their soloists, their dancers and their comedians. Their program is excellently varied, proceeding from such well known items as Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea" and "The Volga Boatmen" to a "The Deum" of Tchaikovsky and a curious "Lord Have Mercy" of Lvovsky. In the latter, the words "Hospodi pomilui" are repeated 75 times, something after the fashion of the well known "Ein Ton" in which the entire song is sung on one note.

Director of the choir was Nicholas Kostoukoff and the soloists included V. Lashevich, a wonderfully high tenor; K. Ruusunen, baritone; Don Carlo, tenor; G. Dubrovsky, bass-baritone; M. Dido, tenor; I. Assur and B. Prock, baritones.

The dancers were G. Solodukhin, S. Sablin, A. Kirilov and A. Schikolenko. The Don Cossacks sing again tonight at Duncan before leaving the Island for Los Angeles.

A good many of 45-year-old John Dunn's problems were solved with the announcement that his five-shilling gamble on the results of Saturday's soccer games had paid off at odds of more than 1,000,000 to 1.

Dunn declared that when he discovered his win, "a great chorus of music came to my ears."

The payoff was the biggest ever to a single gambler and the second biggest of all month prizes. Two Belfast men last February shared the 11-time high—£300,684 ($841,915).

Cancer Peril to Fair Skins

Sun's a Menace

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're fair-skinned, blue-eyed, red-haired and freckled, give up your place in the sun.

You are a prime candidate for skin cancer, the most common kind of cancer, if you habitually get too much sun, Dr. Francis W. Lynch of the University of Minnesota said Tuesday.

If you are dark and oily skinned you can probably take the sun in your stride.

INDIAN TRIBES

The Sioux Indians in past centuries were second only to the Algonquians as the most numerous tribe north of Mexico.

In fact, people whose ancestors came from northern climes such as the English, Scotch and Irish run a greater risk of skin cancer than others when they live in a sunny climate, Dr. Lynch told the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society.

Another cause of skin cancer is irritation due to tars and similar substances. Again, light-skinned people are more susceptible.

Ninety per cent of all skin cancer occurs on the face. It can be found early and treated successfully.

Shipbuilders' Fate in Federal Cabinet's Hands

Fate of several hundred Victoria shipyard workers rests in the hands of members of the federal cabinet. Mayor Percy Scurrah told the Colonist last night from Ottawa.

Following an exhausting day of meetings aimed at obtaining more work for hard-pressed

local shipyards, the mayor said: "It's now up to the cabinet to make the decision."

"We have seen every available cabinet minister... and every deputy. We have presented every argument we can think of and now it is in the lap of the gods."

The four-man city delegation had meetings with Defence Minister Peakes, Labor Minister Starr, Fisheries Minister MacLean, Associate Defence Minister Sevigny, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley, Public Works Minister Walker, as well as Gowan Guest, secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Unfortunately," said the mayor, "two of our strong supporters, External Affairs Minister Howard Green and Justice Minister Davie, Fulton were away on government business."

Other members of the city delegation are G. Conway Parrott, Chamber of Commerce, J. Courtney Haddock, retail merchants, and E. T. Staley, organized labor.

Earlier Ottawa reports quoted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying any attempt to allocate construction of two $3,000,000 vessels to specific areas after tenders have been called would "create serious difficulties."

"We are battling the twin problems of higher wages and higher freight costs to the west coast," said Mayor Scurrah. "It's purely a question of price and it's a great handicap."

The mayor said the delegation used up every argument in an effort to convince the federal government that industry shouldn't be concentrated in the east, and that failure to secure ship-building contracts would mean loss of highly-skilled workers to the local industry.

"We were well received," he said. "But always it was price that proved the stumbling block. We can't do any more now than await the cabinet's decision."

To See Bonner on Family Court

Oak Bay Wants More 'Dope'

Oak Bay council wants some more information from the attorney-general before it makes any decision regarding an area juvenile and family court.

"Three of us will be seeing the attorney-general as soon as we can get an appointment," Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

"We want more facts about the cost and other details," he said. Decision was made in committee Monday night.

The proposed court for Greater Victoria has so far won the approval of only Saanich and Victoria.

At Monday night's council meeting, Esquimalt decided to have Chief Gilbert Stancombe, who doubles as juvenile and probation officer, attend the Nov. 9 meeting to explain the situation.

Meanwhile, Reeve A. C. Wurtele was empowered to investigate the hiring of a probation officer.

B.C. Polio Situation Much Brighter

Deputy health minister Dr. G. F. Amyot said yesterday the polio situation in British Columbia has brightened. "It would look as if it is slowing down considerably," he said.

Only one new case was reported over the weekend, a six-year-old boy from Hope, bringing the 1959 count to 70 cases and 11 deaths.

Pat Bay Airport

Terminus Pledged

Start Likely Before March

A start is likely to be made before next March on construction of the new terminal building for Patricia Bay airport.

Mayor Percy Scurrah told the Colonist in a phone interview from Ottawa that he learned delays were caused by failure of government architects to complete working drawings for the air terminal.

He said following a meeting yesterday with deputy transport minister J. R. Baldwin: "I was assured that the delay in construction of the new airport administration building was due entirely to the architects, who are way behind in getting out the plans."

The mayor said the deputy minister disclosed that funds for the project were approved in departmental estimates for the current year.

BEFORE YEAR'S END

"If the department can get detailed plans in time, tenders will be called before the end of this fiscal year," the mayor said.

Mayor Scurrah, visiting the national capital as leader of a Victoria delegation seeking more work for local shipyards, took the opportunity to press for an early start on the airport project as well.

WAIT FOR A WHILE

During a recent visit here, Defence Minister George Peakes indicated proposed extension of runways and construction of the new airport terminal would have to wait for a while.

"This may not be the time," Mr. Peakes told a press conference, "for the federal government to go out and borrow money to carry out less urgent projects on the priority list."

Tulip Bulbs Gift for Villas

Canadian National Institute for the Blind villas on Humboldt Street will be given 175 tulip bulbs by city Girl Guides today.

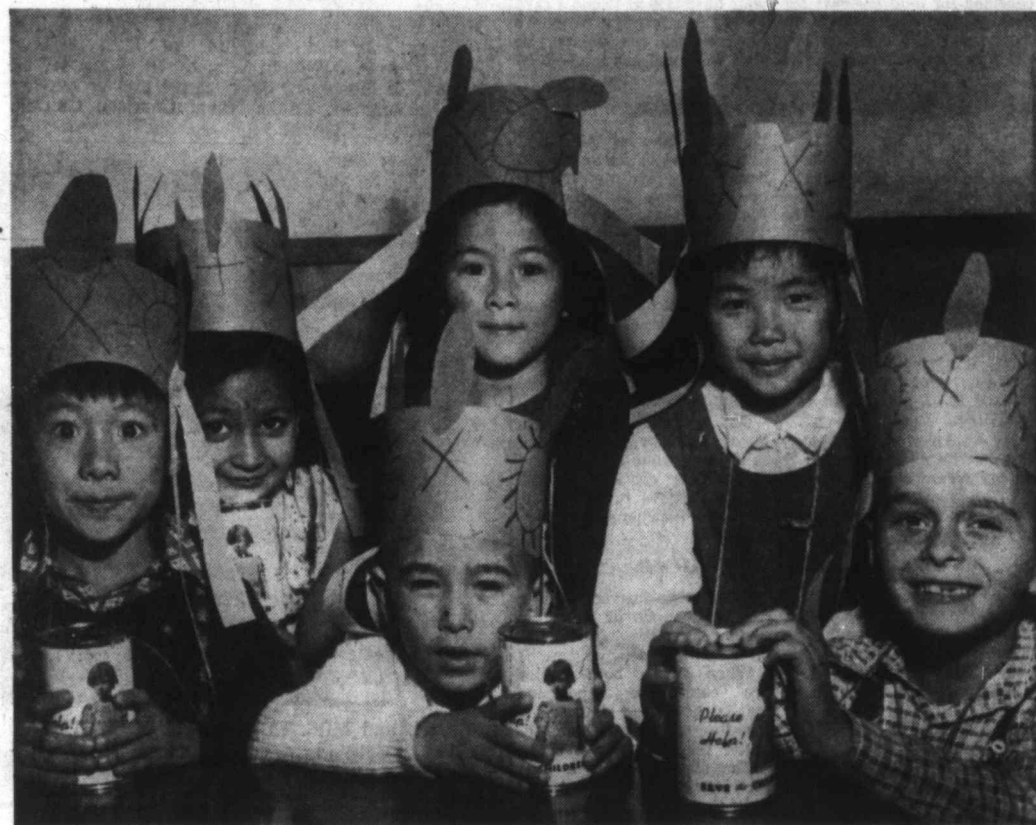

T. C. Davis chairman of the Victoria branch of the CNIB, and Brig. F. N. Cabell, chairman of the villa committee, will receive the presentation.

PTA Sets Workshop

A parent-teacher workshop for executive members of PTAs in Greater Victoria will be held at North Ward School starting at 7:45 p.m. tonight.

Danger Mark Passed By Hurt YMCA Coach

Popular YMCA physical director Archie McKinnon, injured in a swimming pool fall, was reported out of danger by St. Joseph's Hospital authorities yesterday.

Alcohol Council To Meet

The Alcohol Research and Education Council of B.C., another organization whose spotlight is adding to the growing light being thrown on alcoholism, is sponsoring a public meeting here Nov. 4.

Gathering will be held at 8 p.m. in First Baptist Church on Quadra. Principal speaker will be J. G. Wilson, council executive secretary.

The five-year-old organization, supported by churches of all faiths and many individuals, is planning to expand its work in Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island, a spokesman said yesterday.

Mr. Wilson, who has been invited to address area high schools next week, was about to be ordained as a Church of England minister in Manitoba 10 years ago when he entered his present field.

Dairymen To Plead Case

Principals of Saanich's Milky Way Dairy may get their chance to plead their case before the provincial cabinet after all.

John Tisdalle, Saanich Social Credit MLA, said last night that Premier Bennett told him yesterday the defendants would have a chance to submit their case to the cabinet.

He said the premier indicated the hearing might be arranged next week.

TARA SINGH SANGHA
... welcome to visit

Annoyed by Complaints Landlord Backs Couple

Racial discrimination against a young East Indian and his Canadian wife has backfired on persons who barraged the owner of the house with phone calls, many anonymous.

Tara Singh Sangha, 25, a University of British Columbia graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics and chemistry, said last night his landlord became so annoyed at the persistent phone calls he decided to ignore them.

The young couple moved into the house at 860 Reed Street, on the corner of Reed and Glasgow, Oct. 21. A few days later he was asked to see the agent for the house rental.

"The agent told me the owner of the house had been bothered incessantly by telephone calls, both at home and at work," Mr. Sangha said.

"Many of the calls were anonymous, and it was at the point where the owner's employer was complaining."

"He suggested I speak to the neighbors in the area and if they would agree to have us as neighbors he would certainly let us stay."

"That night the agent phoned to say the owner of the house had been so incensed by the telephone campaign that he wanted the Sanghas to stay, Mr. Sangha said."

An opinion poll taken yesterday by Peter Forward, president of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Stewart Hagar, a vice-president of the Jaycees showed about half the persons interviewed in the area to be in favor of the Sanghas staying and half opposed.

"My wife has been quite upset... she was afraid of violence, but we are staying there, definitely," Mr. Sangha said last night. But he added:

"Our neighbors in that area are welcome to visit us as neighbors. We'd like to meet them and get to know each other."

Arson Clues Hunted At Scene of Fires

An inspector from the provincial fire marshal's office in Vancouver will probe through a vacant Victoria cottage today for signs of arson, because of three fires in the building yesterday.

Fire Chief James Bayliss said an estimated $450 damage was caused by the fires found in three separate parts of a room in the old building at 134 Michigan.

The house, owned by Mrs. Dulcie Williamson, 1122 Balmoral, contained only a chestfield suite, a kitchen stove, and a space heater, none of which were anywhere near the fires.

The blaze was discovered about 6:15 a.m. by a newspaper boy who notified neighbors to call the fire department.

Trading Stamps Watched

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that if trading stamps were to become a problem in British Columbia his department would take a new look at them with a view to outlawing them.

But he added that the subject hasn't yet appeared as a problem in B.C. and would be handled under the criminal code.

The Canadian Retail Merchants Association is trying to raise $5,000 in B.C. with which to wage a war against trading stamps.

Action was taken after the meeting learned that one eastern food chain has found a loophole in existing federal legislation aimed at making trade stamps illegal.

Growers Fete Oldtimers

Saanich oldtimers who formerly served on the executive of the Saanich Fruit Growers' Association will be honored at a dinner tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Brenta Lodge.

Heading the guest list will be Clarence Oldfield, who was president of the group for many years. Also scheduled to attend are former directors Philip Holloway, William Blackford, Sidney Vantreight, William Radcliffe, and Herbert Young.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: You may or may not have settled the argument in your column on whether or not to visit sick people in hospitals, but your opinion may save a life or two—if people will listen.

I am a nurse who has had to deal with this problem frequently—and it is a problem. The attitude that you must visit the sick makes ME sick. Folks who would benefit from company (the aged or crippled, or disabled children confined for long periods) seldom get company. But Uncle Jake who had a coronary last week and Aunt Tess who had a baby this morning, are always surrounded by people who KNOW the patients want to see THEM but no one else.

The teenage boy has the added hazard of 10 giggling girls struggling to sit on his bed. He may be flattered, but they usually stay beyond the point where he's glad to have them.

When I was ill last year I did more entertaining in the hospital than when I was in good health at home.

The best policy is to send your hospitalized friend a card or a note saying "I won't come to see you unless you send word and ask me."—R.N.

Visits by Invitation

Dear R.N.: Thank you for a useful letter from someone who has been on both sides of the hypodermic needle. I agree that hospital visits should be by invitation only.

Dear Ann: My problem is different from any I've ever read in your column. I'm a girl, 17, and got my first job during Christmas vacation. I found it easy to steal a few articles from the store I worked in. I got caught, and was fired.

My employer never told anyone, but he must have put it on my record because I can't get another part-time job. I've learned my lesson and

I'd never take anything that didn't belong to me again. But how can I prove myself if no one will have faith in me? Please tell me how to get another chance. —UNTRUSTED TEEN.

Dear Untrusting: I doubt that your employer put this information on your record. Part-time jobs are hard to get which is probably why you're having trouble.

Go to your former employer, however, and ask him. If it is on your record, plead for another chance and ask him to remove it. I hope he gives you the chance.

Don't Buy Trouble

Dear Ann Landers: The title of this letter should be "Don't marry a divorced man: I do better still 'Don't Buy Somebody's Trouble'."

I'm 23 and have been married two years. When my friends see me on the street they ask me if I've been sick. I look terrible.

The man I married is handsome, suave and somewhat temperamental. When he gets mad he throws things, slams doors, knocks over furniture and calls me unprintable names. I sit and shake all over. In other words, I'm getting the same treatment his first wife got.

My mother told me a divorced man is a poor risk but I didn't believe her. I do now. Pass the word.—BATTLE-SCARRED.

Dear Battle-Scarred: Thanks for the benefit of your experience, but the statistics are on the other side.

When one or both parties are veterans of a previous marriage the chances for a lasting marriage are slightly better than with two rookies.

The statistics take a turn for worse, however, at the three-time loser plateau. Any one who has had three pff-fitts at the altar has less chance to make the next one stick—and the percentages decrease from then on.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDER'S booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Shopping with Sally

Don't Forget Safety Pin Set Plenty of Bargains for Baby

I went shopping for the safety pin set today and uncovered some interesting nursery novelties.

One department store has a corner of a floor set aside for such items. Among the standard buggies, cribs, walkers and strollers, was a five-foot-odd giraffe clothes tree in blue and yellow for $11.95. Handy for mother and handy for the little tykes, too, when they come to the dressing stage.

A modern switch for baby's amusement is a cleverly constructed mobile with dangling birds, fish and trinkets that is clamped to the back of the crib, just out of reach but not out of sight. Price is $5.95.

Lights for the little ones have taken on a new look. One model shows a mother reading to a baby in the cradle, all in pink and blue. Wind it up and you get both a tinkly "Rock-a-Bye Baby" and a rocking cradle. The large shade is trimmed in matching colors and the price is $15.95; expensive but worth the money.

Two night lights are featured, one a demure little nurse whose plastic bell skirt glows with a red light and with a small cup holding emergency safety pins. Price is $5.95. The other night-light had a small elephant attached directly to the filament of a clear light bulb to give off a small red glow; flick the switch, it was an ordinary nursery lamp, complete with three elves and shade, for $15.95.

Just as babies need care, so do plants, particularly if you're planning a weekend or week's trip. Just the thing is a "plant sitter." In the shape of a rose, this gadget is inserted into the soil of your plant. The top porcelain part shaped like the petals is filled with water and the bottom "stem" of a porous material, waters while you're away. Price is only 69 cents.

Personally, I find the blue and white striped Cornish chinaware very attractive mainly because everything comes in such large sizes. The coffee cup holds a decent cup of coffee. New additions to the set include a salt cellar, designed to be hung on the wall, for $1.95, egg cups for 35 cents, sugar and flour shakers for $1.25 and $1.50, a lo and behold, a china rolling pin in the blue and white for $1.75.

Beaten copperware is still a popular gift item. Two attractive pieces I saw were a cigarette box with a raised leaf motif on the lid for $7.95 and a clever centrepiece with a flower bowl in a "folded" oval shape with double candelabra attached to each side for $15.95. The same piece with single candelabra was $8.50.

Just can't resist chintzy, homespun traditional furniture and all the lovely maple and pine work that goes with it. One highly individual gift item for the home sewer is a small, maple barrel that once might have held apple cider and has been converted into a sewing basket on three legs with a hinged opening in the lid. Price is $17.50.

To brighten and make more comfortable those straight, old-fashioned chairs that are destined for the attic anyway, would be a new coat of varnish and a plump and pretty foam rubber cushion, available in brilliant green, blue, orange, red, brown, and gold. Complete with ties to fasten to the back of the chair, these are priced at $4.50 and $5.95.

Danish made and tailored for a modern home is a wall decoration in teak of a long and racy-looking shark. Price of one is $14.95.

And for those treasured pieces of china and other bric-a-brac, one new arrival is a solid mahogany curio case with glass front and sides and mirror back to show off those collections. Price is $49.50.

Teen-age Marriages Where are they sleeping tonight?

They just got married this morning. Where will they sleep tonight? It hadn't crossed their minds. What will they do for money? They hadn't thought of it. Are they in love? Oh yes. Violently. Passionately. What's in their future? Loneliness and tragedy. Who is to blame? YOU! No social problem in America today is more frightening than the rapid rise in teen marriages. No family is exempt from the bitter consequences. Here's How to Make Them

Delicacies Offered At Hadassah Bazaar

Ever wondered how to make some of the delicious foods offered at the many bazaars held this fall?

The Victoria Jewish community is holding its annual Hadassah bazaar today from 2 to 11 p.m. at the Club Sirocco.

One of the stalls that will attract many is the special home baking display offering several delicacies, among them Gefilte Fish (fishballs).

GEFILTE FISH
Half pound red salmon, 1 1/2 pounds white salmon, 1/2 pound mixed cod and carp, 1 medium onion, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon bread crumbs, 1 cup water, 1 tablespoon sugar, generous amount of salt and pepper, two carrots.

Put fish and onion through grinder and then into chopping bowl. While chopping, add one egg at a time and a little water, then crumbs, sugar and seasoning. Continue chopping. Form into balls and place in large pot, half full of boiling water. Add three large sliced onions, carrots, 1/2 teaspoon sugar and salt and pepper. Cook slowly for two to three hours. Good hot or cold. Serve with horseradish.

CHEESE CAKE
Melt 1/2 cup butter in a 9x9 baking pan. (This butters your pan and saves washing a dirty pot.)

Crush eight double graham wafers with a rolling pin. Add one teaspoon cinnamon, mixing well with melted butter. Pat 3/4 of the mixture into the pan and set in refrigerator.

Then add the following in order given using blender at low speed.

One cup sugar white, 1/2 cup cream (omit if cheese is wet), two pounds dry cottage cheese, four eggs (if desired, separate and add beaten whites later) three tablespoons flour, one teaspoon vanilla, and 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Beat long enough to blend. Pour over wafer mixture. Sprinkle remaining crumbs on top. Bake in centre of 350 degree oven for one hour. Do NOT open oven during baking. Cool thoroughly and keep in refrigerator.

And here's a recipe for crisp cookies called Komish Broit.

Three eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup oil, pinch of salt, 3 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup ground almonds, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup coconut (optional).

Beat eggs, add sugar, oil, salt and vanilla and beat well. Fold in nuts and add sufficient flour to make a stiff dough. Shape into three rolls and bake. Slice and dip in cinnamon and sugar mixture and then dry in a very slow oven.

SONS OF SCOTLAND
Sons of Scotland, Balmorlie Camp No. 204, will hold a Cairngorm supper dance in the Club Sirocco on Friday, beginning at 9 p.m. with the grand march. Tickets may be obtained at the club the night of the dance.

LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

YOUR FIGURE AND NEW FASHIONS. In fall fashions, the shape's the thing... an idealized feminine shape, with a lifted and rounded bosom, an emphatically-marked waist, and a gently-curved hip and thigh.

To carry off this shaping, a woman's figure will have to conform closely to it. Any fleshy disparities will show, and real plain. Happily, they can be decreased by a knowing selection of foundation garments.

New foundations are designed to shape the figure into fashion's mold, line for line. And if trimming is your aim, here's what to look for:

In brassieres—high, rounded construction with two or three section cups; precise-fit features, such as adjustable tabs between cups and criss-crossed midriff bands.

In girdles—built-in waistline control, via an elastic inner band or semi-attached cinch; hip control in the form of double or bias back panels; hip/thigh control of shaped bands, rather than straight panels.

Never fear, none of those innovations makes for constriction. In fact, each is made to contour with a feather touch. MIDRIFF SLIMMERS To solve that riddle of extra inches' around your middle, send today for my leaflet, Midriff Slimmers. It contains quick, easy reducing exercises for slimming diaphragm, waist and abdomen. Write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Garden Notes

Don't Lift the Daisies

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

While October and November are excellent months for lifting and dividing most of our perennial flowers, there are a few subjects which resent any disturbance in the fall. The Pyrethrums, for instance, seem to have a pronounced tendency to pack up and quit if they are lifted and moved during the autumn months.

These Painted Daisies move and divide best immediately after their first flowering period. It seems a bit queer to put the digging fork to them while they are in full growth, in early summer, but they re-establish themselves very quickly at this time. I mention this now so you won't go digging up that pet plant of Eileen May Robinson or Kelway's Glorious during your fall overhaul of the perennial border.

Scabiosa caucasica is another plant which doesn't care much for fall moving, although you can sometimes get away with it on warm, sandy loam soil. Early spring, when growth is just commencing, is more to the taste of this Pincushion flower.

With the early Brussels sprouts coming nicely into bearing now, I think it is about time to publish my annual warning on how to harvest this valuable winter vegetable.

One very common mistake is for Mr. or Mrs. Gardener to squat down in front of one plant and proceed to strip it of all its sprouts. If you do this, that one plant is finished and will make no further contributions to your table, while the lower sprouts on all the other plants are left to grow too long, becoming "blown" and turning yellow.

The trick here is to go right through the whole Brussels sprouts patch, taking only one or two of the lowest sprouts from each plant. Harvested in this way, the patch will continue to supply a good quantity of sprouts for a long time to come.

While picking, always keep your eyes open for any leaves which have turned yellow. These should be picked off immediately, and either burnt or put on the compost heap—in any case, get them right away from the sprouts patch.

We are not dealing with some horrible plant disease here—the yellow leaves have passed away simply through old age, and are not contagious in any way. Trouble is, they have a horrible smell, something like the cooking odor of a very rank cabbage, and if left on or near the plants, they may taint the sprouts.

One troublesome spot in the garden which always makes a lot of backbreaking work is the edge where the lawn joins the flower beds. The grass insists upon growing into the beds and has to be pulled up painfully by hand, while the edging plants flop over the edge of the lawn, making mowing and edging a miserable chore.

This can be avoided, the garden labor lessened, and an attractive feature added to the border simply by leaving a space nine inches to a foot wide between the grass and the first row of plants, and paving this strip with shallow, flat stones, or by making a little ditch and filling it up with gravel or stone chippings.

These should be placed just a trifle lower than the level of the lawn, so the mower can be run along the edge with one wheel on the grass and the other on the stones. You'll be surprised how many man-hours of kneeling or stooping this saves.

While you're at it, why not bury a length of tar paper or building paper on edge just where the lawn ends. This will act as a barrier to the creeping stolons of grass seeds to invade the flower bed. Ordinary building paper will last for several years in the ground; but if you want to go first class, you can buy strips of corrugated aluminum especially designed for this grass barrier job.

Today's Pleasure Grim

If you want to invest 35 cents in several hours of sheer, delightful entertainment, get a copy of "The Secret of Chimneys" by Agatha Christie (Dell).

It's an early Christie masterpiece, written in 1925, when she and her readers were a lot younger and gayer than today. People in those days wanted romance, adventure and mysterious doings in high society, and Agatha Christie dished it all up in profusion.

The murderess in this one is nothing less than a prince of the mythical Balkan kingdom of Herzegovina. The amateur sleuth is a dashing young man of impeccable manners (Eton and Oxford, of course), who has led a life of glamorous adventure in Africa and South America, but is actually the heir to the throne of... No, I won't tell you. I'll let you guess.

The breathtakingly charming heroine is high society, too, and frequently seen in the pages of the Tatler. In the end, of course, she winds up as queen of you-know-what.

Then there's sturdy, masterful Inspector Battle of Scotland Yard, and there's Clement Edward Alistair Brent, 9th Marquis of Caterham, who owns Chimneys, one of the stately homes of England. Chimneys has a secret passage, accessible through a convenient secret panel behind one of the genuine Holbeins.

There's also a priceless, world-famous stolen diamond. And a manuscript of scandalous, highly revealing memoirs. And a bundle of letters from a lady to her lover, excellently suited for blackmail purposes. But then it turns out the letters were in code and the addressee was really King Victor, the master criminal of Europe.

Ah, the life in those days! At one point Lord Caterham comes down to breakfast. He goes over to the sideboard, lifts the cover of each of half a score of heavy silver dishes and then says:

"Omelet, eggs and bacon, kidneys, deviled bird, haddock, cold ham, cold pheasant. I don't like any of these things. Treadwell. Ask the cook to poach me an egg: will you?"

And the butler answers, "Very good, my lord."

Right after "The Secret of Chimneys" I read another 35-cent mystery, "No Vacation for Maigret" by Simenon (Bantam).

Simenon is an excellent French writer, but what fun is it to read about nothing but gloom and squallor?

In this book the murder victim is a scrawny 14-year-old girl who lives with her parents in a small French town. Inspector Maigret arrives on the scene. As he stands in the girl's shabby little bedroom, he looks out at the back yard. "It was enclosed by a low, barbed-wire fence. In one corner was a rabbit hutch, in another a little shed. A few vegetables were growing in the poor sandy soil, some potted leeks, some lettuce, and a few cabbages... It was a miserable place, squalid under the grey sky."

This is reading for pleasure?

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Liz's Men Lean to Gambling

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor had a battle over his gambling activities, before they left Las Vegas for New York. With the exception of Mike Wilding, all Liz's mates were gamblers.

Sophia Loren is finally going to get a rest. I was assured by her husband and producer, Carlo Ponti—three months in Paris, following her current movie with Clark Gable, "Bay of Naples." Carlo, here at Paramount, told me he was flying to Paris the end of this week to meet his wife. "After her vacation, she will make a picture in France and London with Anatole Litvak producing. Then another one in Europe, with George Cukor."

The James Masons' Party will be 11 years old Nov. 15. Party, now starring with her parents in "Murder in the Red Barn," has shed her baby fat, and looks quite gorgeous. She reminds me of a young Patricia Neal. If they can wait a few years, I believe Party will play "Lolita"—if James and Pam will okay it, that is, and I think they will.

Ray Danton, who won the role of Legs Diamond in the gangster's life story at Warners, partly because of his broken nose, will undergo surgery to correct it when the film is finished. He will also sue the driver who smashed into his car, and caused the injury, according to Ray.

Bing Crosby and Bob Hope start their "Road to the Moon" in February. It's Bob's next film. They haven't yet decided who the lady will be. But I hope they will decide to include their old "road" girl friend, Dorothy Lamour.

Ava Gardner is objecting to her swim-suit scenes in "On the Beach." Belatedly, she wants them cut—says too much of Ava is showing!

When the Duke of Bedford gets his divorce, the lady who may be the next duchess is a Frenchwoman who toils as a TV producer.

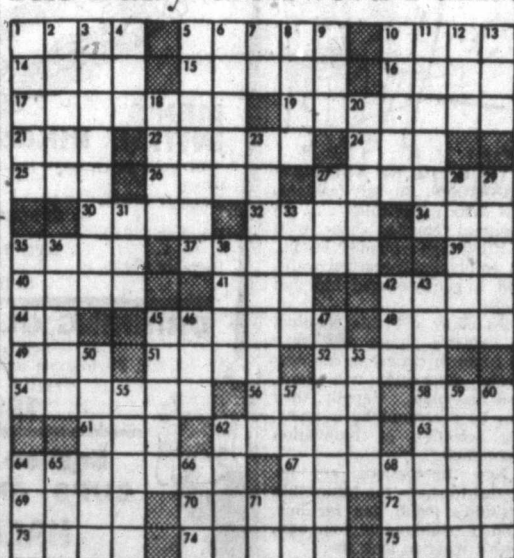

Jayne Meadows not only does a song-and-dance number on husband Steve Allen's Nov. 2 show, but also a comedy sketch with Steve and his funny men.

Stephen Boyd reports he doesn't mind how much of his footage was cut from "Ben Hur"—because just being in the picture is the greatest thing that has ever happened to me.

When Anne Francis left 20th Century-Fox four years ago, she measured 33-24-35. Back on the Buddy Adler lot last week, Anne's vital statistics were 36-24-35.

Brigitte Bardot or Audrey Hepburn is the girl they want for "Fanny," the Josh Logan film which also will star Charles Boyer and Maurice Chevalier. The latter does eight weeks first in Australia, taking his pianist and two musicians.

Winning Contract

followed by 5 no-trump, were possibly the two worst bids of the year, and South managed to crowd both into the same auction.

Yet, such are the vagaries of the game, that declarer found himself in the only makeable slam contract! In diamonds, West would lead the club ace, telling his partner's king, and would continue the suit to furnish the setting ruff.

Defending against no-trump, East-West were helpless. They could cash or underlead the club ace—this saving the over-trick—but nothing could prevent declarer from gathering 12 or more tricks after the opening lead. Too often, the punishment does not fit the crime, much to the disgust of the scientific bidder whose more reasonable contract isn't always the most successful one.

Up to a point, the auction was not unreasonable. However, South's 4 no-trump call,

Britain to Ease Gambling Laws

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Macmillan's government told a new Parliament yesterday it would work for improved relations abroad and a better life at home.

Labor School To Hear Businessman

A prominent city businessman and an instructor from Canadian Services College at Royal Roads will be among lecturers at a special weekend labor education institute in Victoria.

The institute, sponsored by the Canadian Labor Congress, will be held Nov. 7 and 8 at Oak Bay Junior High School. Keynote speaker will be businessman Hugh R. Stephen, who will speak on adult education in labor-management relations.

Prof. C. S. Burchill will conduct a course on economics. Other lecturers include CLC representative Percy Lawson, dealing with "The Labor Relations Act and Your Union," Mrs. Percy Rayment, public speaking; Chris Crombie, labor journalism.

A. W. Toone, registrar, yesterday urged all interested members of unions affiliated to Victoria Labor Council to sign up as soon as possible. Registration closes Nov. 2.

Among the legislative reforms were proposals to liberalize gambling laws. Although the public can bet at tracks and through certain credit account bookies, the government now plans to legalize card-playing in public and establish cash betting shops.

Also high among the government's plans were proposals to help attract new industry, increase help to pensioners, push slum clearance, build more schools and colleges, help the farm and fishing industries and modernize railroads and highways.

Miracles Priest Inherits Millions

ROME (Reuters)—A Roman Catholic priest who for 40 years has had stigmata (the wounds of Christ) in his hands and feet will inherit 2,000,000 lire (about $4,000,000) after a seven-year court battle over the will of a life-long friend.

He is Father Pio, a 72-year-old Capuchin friar whom Roman Catholics all over the world credit with the power to work miracles.

His friend, Mario de Giacomo, died in 1952 but the will was contested by Naples Hospital which stood to inherit the money if it had been refused to Father Pio. Now the money will go to the friar's hospital built around the monastery where Father Pio lives.

Outspoken and simple in habits, Father Pio is reputed to have admitted having the power of bilocation (being in two places at once). Some claim he has appeared in sickrooms thousands of miles from his monastery.

Fanatic Cobbler Crucified

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—Two teenage girls walked into a shoe repair shop Monday and found the shoemaker dead, his body nailed to the floor and wall. The victim was George Krausert, 64. Authorities said he was a religious fanatic and may have co-operated with another person in his grisly crucifixion.

DR. HAROLD C. UREY
... spur us on

U.S. Space Expert:

Don't Kid,
We Lag

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Harold C. Urey said last night the Soviet photograph of the moon's far side was "an outstanding technical achievement" which should spur this country to greater efforts in space.

Urey, a Nobel Prize winner, is one of science's foremost students of the chemistry of the stars and the nature of the moon and planets. He agreed with other scientists here that the Russian photo is not detailed enough to warrant conclusions about the nature of the moon's other side.

TECHNICAL SKILL

But he said it was impossible to exaggerate the technical skill which enabled the Russians to get the picture at all.

"We are not. I think it will be years before we are."

"MARVELOUS"

Other astronomers, who did not want to be quoted by name, also stressed what one called the "marvelous technical accomplishment" manifested by the photograph.

One scientist said the technique used by the Russians could have tremendous military significance.

WORM-LIKE

Urey, who is visiting colleagues here, was particularly interested in the long worm-like marking in the photograph which the Russians said was a mountain range.

"It is a mountain range," Urey said, "it is very different from any range on the front side. It is, perhaps, the most striking feature of the photograph."

MORE DETAILS

Urey added that "we cannot, however, come to any serious conclusions about the photograph until we get further details."

U.S. scientists hope the Russians will send them clear copies of the photograph for further study. One said he believes they will do that.

This scientist said he and his colleagues were especially impressed with the "attitude control"—the orientation of the satellite so that its lens pointed at the moon—achieved by the Russians. He said they apparently accomplished this with "jet controls."

This scientist called the photograph "a major step forward in the exploration of the solar system."

No Land Available
Comox MLA Says

Comox MLA Dan Campbell last night called on the provincial government to send its regional planners into the northern half of Vancouver Island and set up a plan for orderly regional development.

He asked the government to encourage other resource use, as well as forestry which now dominates the area.

Premier Bennett has set 1960 as target date for a start on a north Island road, but "there is not one acre of land available there on which to place a tourist resort or any other business," Mr. Campbell said.

He said practically every bit of land in the northern half of the Island is held as forested area, either in private or public forest.

BUILD OWN HOME

"Even loggers can't obtain property of their own on which to build their own homes," he said. "At the moment no community could be developed except under company sponsorship. The basic problem is, crown grants for any other use but mining and forestry are difficult, if not impossible to obtain."

He charged the big timber interests with adopting a "lord of the manor type of attitude." "This area differs little from the southern half of the Island and therefore one resource user should not dominate its development," Mr. Campbell said.

He called upon the government to release some of its crown land from forest reserves and make it available for settlement and diversified development.

RELEASING LOTS

A spokesman for the lands department said the government now is releasing a few lots of crown land in the Port Hardy area so residents may lease them for private dwelling purposes.

"A program of multiple use of the region should be encouraged by the provincial government," Mr. Campbell said.

He called for recreational land to be available for both private and public development.

OPPORTUNITY LIMITED

"Opportunity for private enterprise in the area is certainly limited," he added.

"Certainly logging will always be the most important use of the area, but miners, recreation users, fishermen, farmers, plus all the service people who develop businesses in stable areas, should have an opportunity to help in the development of the area," Mr. Campbell said.

He said there is a limited amount of private property in isolated areas around Port Alice and Port Hardy, but it is very limited.

"Although the area is the equal of the south of the Island in its recreation potential, there is no place where private enterprise could place a tourist resort," he said.

40 MILES NEEDED

Mr. Campbell said only 40 miles of new road is needed to open up more than 100 miles of Island. The rest is covered by a network of logging roads.

"When is the crown going to establish basic access lines of road communications in the name of the public? When is it going to insist on public access over logging roads such as the Campbell River—Mochalet Arm road, the Nimpkish Valley road, and the Port McNeill to Port Alice road?" he asked.

"I think it is more than a coincidence that the timber companies have not been foremost in urging that road connections and stable communities be encouraged. They have not jumped up and down with glee at the thought of development of the north Island," he said.

"In the north Island there is no doubt that if you keep the people out and keep the roads from coming, the problems of the lumber firms will be kept to a minimum," he said.

DAN CAMPBELL

Hid Under Bed

Little Boys
Start Fire
And Perish

SUMNER, Wash. (AP)—Two small boys, who apparently set fire to their home while playing with matches and then hid under a bed, were found dead in the charred ruins of the house here Tuesday.

Coroner Dr. Frank James said the victims were Larry Hammerberg, 5, and his brother, Danny, 4.

Dr. James said the boys' bodies were found under a bed in an upstairs room. They died of asphyxiation.

The coroner said he believed the boys were hiding under the bed for fear of being discovered after playing with matches which set the front room curtains and sofa afire. Matches were strewn about the area where the fire started, James said.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—East and West Tuesday night agreed on a United Nations resolution calling for complete world disarmament under effective control.

Soviet Bills
Double U.S.

Knife-Waving
Drunk Faces
Cuban Trial

HAVANA (AP)—A man who staggered drunkenly toward Prime Minister Fidel Castro with a knife in his hand last week was indicted Tuesday on a charge of attempted assassination.

Roberto Salas Martinez, 44-year-old upholsterer, was arrested in a crowd that had gathered around Castro last Thursday night.

The Soviet Union and Western powers, led by the United States and Britain and including Canada, reached agreement in private sessions on the resolution which will be placed before the UN General Assembly's 82-member political committee today.

Terms of the resolution were not disclosed immediately but spokesmen said it does not give its blessing to any particular country's disarmament plan.

All proposals, including the one placed before the General Assembly Sept. 18 by Premier Khrushchev and the one outlined the day before by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, will be submitted to a new 10-nation conference to begin in Geneva early next year. Those plans also will be submitted to the 82-nation UN disarmament commission.

Besides Russia, the U.S., Britain and Canada, sponsors include France, Italy and Brazil. A U.S. spokesman said many other nations are expected to become co-sponsors, including India.

The main negotiators in the behind-the-scenes talks were Vasily W. Kuznetsov, Russia's deputy foreign minister who took the first initiative, and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Charles S. A. Ritchie, Canada's permanent ambassador to the UN, took part in talks among the Western countries.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Thirsty Canadians downed 806,978 barrels of beer in September, the Dominion Brewers' Association reported yesterday.

The national trade association of the brewing industry disclosed that beer sales for the first nine months of 1959 were 6,947,598 barrels compared with 6,895,905 in the same period last year, an increase of some 8.6 per cent.

Halloween Firecracker

First Victim
In Hospital

Halloween is still four days away—but already a small boy is in Royal Jubilee Hospital, threatened with loss of sight in one eye. Cause—one firecracker.

He is nine-year-old Larry Lyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lyne, 3204 Kingsley. His father yesterday was at sea with the navy, but his mother had a Halloween message for parents and children of Greater Victoria.

"Keep your children and firecrackers, or other fireworks apart," she urged. "Make the message strong."

Larry and his brother and sister have never been allowed to have their own firecrackers or fireworks. Their mother and a neighbor would pool resources and put on a fireworks show—no firecrackers—for the youngsters on Halloween.

"Monday," said Mrs. Lyne, "Larry was on his way home from school when he found one firecracker. He brought it home, and got a box of matches and wooden penholder and took them outside."

"He took the nib out of the pen, and inserted the firecracker in the hole, then lit it, expecting it would fly away."

"It didn't." "The firecracker exploded in his hand, splitting the penholder. A splinter of wood and some of the powder flew into Larry's eye, cutting it badly."

50-Unit Campsite, Big Picnic Park To Be Started at Bamberton Beach

Work on construction of 50 camping units and a large picnic area at Sandy Beach Bamberton Park will start Monday, a spokesman for the provincial recreation department said yesterday.

He said about 30 men will move in on the job which will be carried out as a winter work project. Most of the members of the construction crew will be men already employed by the parks branch on other projects which are closing down because of winter conditions in the interior.

Another 30 men will also start work Monday on construction of an 80-camping unit park at Alice Lake, near Squamish.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said yesterday winter work projects are starting immediately as the result of a telegram he received yesterday from federal Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton stating the federal government will again contribute on a dollar-for-dollar basis in campsite and picnic area construction.

Last year the federal government offered to contribute some $2,000,000 across Canada on a share basis for park construction and the B.C. government took up a lion's share of that offer.

30-Man Gang Moves In To Begin Work Monday

Mr. Hamilton, in his telegram to Mr. Westwood, did not state the amount of money available this year, but did say a letter would follow explaining the terms.

"We have kept some money for this purpose and are ready to swing into action immediately to take up the federal offer and to provide winter work," Mr. Westwood said.

As soon as the Bamberton Park is completed the provincial parks branch plans to move its construction crew to Smith's Landing Park on Sproat Lake to construct a new parking lot, improve the picnic area and put in some camping units.

More camping units and a better picnic area at Stamp Falls Park will be attended to by the same crew.

In the spring it is planned to start on a 100-campsite provincial park at Chemainus Pool.

Fifty-acre Bamberton Park was donated to the province by the B.C. Cement Company. Plans call for picnic tables and a cement tile change house on the beach.

Because of the difficulties occasioned by the topography of the site no boat launching facilities will be provided, but campers or picnickers could approach the park from the water.

A special area will be marked off for swimming and water skiing will be forbidden in that area.

A trail from the campsite to the beach will be about 200 yards long, but the picnic parking area will be just above the beach.

It is planned to have Bamberton Beach park open to the public by May or June.

Radio Station Work Lauded

DUNCAN—City council has approved work done by Mayor Jack Dobson and Ald. John Kerrone to assist a group here to form a private radio station.

A motion says "that such an application is in the best interests of the community as opposed to any application in the best interest made on behalf of outside interests."

Charge Dismissed

Crown Must Prove Careless Driving

DUNCAN—County court Judge Arnold Hanna ruled yesterday that just because a driver is in a car accident he may not be guilty of careless driving.

He made the comment when he dismissed a charge of careless driving against John Helmar Braten, a resident here, after an appeal case.

Braten was appealing a conviction issued against him by Magistrate A. C. Sutton in police court last month.

"It is up to the Crown to prove he is guilty and not for the defence to prove his innocence," said Judge Hanna.

He said the Crown must prove that the person charged was in an accident but more than that, must prove their charge of careless driving. He said in the Crown's evidence there was nothing "criminal" shown.

Police proved Braten was the driver of a car that went off the side of the Maple Bay Road here April 19 and crashed through a telephone pole, doing little damage to the car.

Defence lawyer was David William, Crown prosecutor was Thomas Lines.

Cenotaph Ceremony Slated for Nov. 11

Port Alberni

$175,000 School Started

PORT ALBERNI—Construction has started on a $175,000 building to replace the fire-damaged Smith Memorial School.

Excavation was started yesterday after William Carr applied at Monday night's council meeting for quick approval of the plans of Holy Family Parish for the building on the same property as that presently occupied by the Roman Catholic day school.

The 12-classroom school will be entirely fireproof, of concrete block construction with concrete floors and a full basement, Mr. Carr said.

He told council that intentions had been to build next year but, because of the fire, an immediate start is essential. He said classes are being carried on under primitive conditions in the damaged building and unless the new school is completed by next September, it would be impossible to accommodate the 400 to 500 children.

Boy, Non-Driver Boss Penalized in Duncan

DUNCAN—A juvenile and his adult employer, who does not drive, each appeared in court yesterday.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton fined the employer $10 in police court. He is J. T. Shearer of Victoria who pleaded guilty to a charge of allowing the boy, who only had a learner's licence, to drive his car.

Then in juvenile court Magistrate Sutton put the 17-year-old on three months' probation.

The youth admitted having a learner's licence and to driving when he was not accompanied by an adult holder of a driver's licence.

Fair Park Lease Reverts to Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Vancouver Island Exhibition Board president Frank Wilfert has turned back the lease on Exhibition Park to the city.

This means that the city will now have to administer the park and maintain it. Lack of attendance at park functions—the fall fair and recent hobby show—contributed to a deficit on the exhibition board's books.

Mr. Wilfert said that the board is prepared to run the 1960 fall fair, and will apply for a class "B" rating.

Ladysmith

Joint Work Urged On Road Repairs

LADYSMITH—The improvement of any roads in the district should be a joint effort, Alex Smith, secretary of North Oyster Ratepayers Association, said at a chamber of commerce meeting Monday. Efforts by separate bodies regarding the same project quite often causes confusion, he added.

Facts and figures carry a great deal of weight with "the gentlemen at Victoria," Mr. Smith told his audience, which is why he is preparing a brief giving complete details on roads requirements before the next session at Victoria.

Of $25,000 allotted for North Oyster District in the estimates for roads, the sum of $16,000 goes into construction of one concrete culvert, which replaces a bridge on the Haslam Creek road. This leaves very little for maintenance. "I must say," said Mr. Smith, "that the gravelled roads are in deplorable condition most of the time."

"It has been drawn to the attention of Mr. Gagliardi that there is a very important marina catering to boatmen and tourists, on the Manana Road."

A promise was given that an effort would be made to keep this road in good condition as a gravel road until such times as money was available for more permanent work, but the promise was not kept, Mr. Smith charged.

The chamber members voted unanimously to support the North Oyster Association in efforts to make full representation to the Minister of Highways P. A. Gagliardi, regarding the needs of the district.

The Chamber's roads committee was authorized to contact Mr. Smith, following the association meeting Nov. 13, at which time he will present the matter. A copy of the brief to be prepared will go to the district engineer, and the local representative.

Slick Forgers Rob Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—City banks were duped of at least $7,500 late last week in a cheque-passing operation which police believe is also being conducted in Vancouver.

Police said the false traveler's cheques accepted by several city banks were top forgery jobs and would not be easily traced.

The counterfeit cheques in $50 denominations were discovered when they went through the clearing house here to be sent on to Vancouver and Victoria.

Poverty May Close Zoo at Nanaimo

NANAIMO—Paul Hertel's zoo at Nanaimo may be forced to close through lack of funds.

Mrs. Ida Williams, secretary-treasurer of the Vancouver Island Zoological Society, which operates the zoo, said last night the future of the zoo will depend on a $10,000, Island-wide appeal which Hertel plans to launch, as soon as Community Chest and United Appeal drives are finished.

The society is not only faced with a low bank balance and a shortage of funds, it has a shortage of officers. Five of the seven directors resigned recently, leaving only Keith Cathart and Lorence Minot on the executive.

Plowing Test Slated Saturday

DUNCAN—The popular Cowichan plowing match that was cancelled last weekend because of rain is scheduled to be held Saturday.

Cowichan band chief Elwood Modeste will officially open the match at 1 p.m. The actual contests start at 10 a.m. in a field owned by Hugo Tews, behind the Canoe Store in Koksilah.

LCB Chief To Meet Hotelmen

The five licences of the Nanaimo beer parlors which have been closed down by the Liquor Control Board will meet with LCB commission Col. Donald McGugan on Thursday, a week after their licences were cancelled.

The beer parlors—the Nanaimo, Plaza, Somerset, Wellington and Lotus—were closed down for unsatisfactory operation, but it is understood they had refused to sell the small 10 cent glasses of beer and had insisted on serving 20 cent glasses, which contain less beer than two small glasses.

Shipbuilders' Fate in Federal Cabinet's Hands

Fate of several hundred Victoria shipyard workers rests in the hands of members of the federal cabinet. Mayor Percy Scurrell told the Colonist last night from Ottawa.

Following an exhausting day of meetings aimed at obtaining more work for hard-pressed

local shipyards, the mayor said: "It's now up to the cabinet to make the decision."

"We have seen every available cabinet minister... and every deputy. We have presented every argument we can think of and now it is in the lap of the gods."

The four-man city delegation had meetings with Defence Minister Peakes, Labor Minister Starr, Fisheries Minister MacLean, Associate Defence Minister Seavigny, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley, Public Works Minister Walker, as well as Gowan Guest, secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"Unfortunately," said the mayor, "two of our strong supporters, External Affairs Minister Howard Green and Justice Minister Davie Fulton were away on government business."

merchants, and E. T. Staley, organized labor.

Earlier Ottawa reports quoted Prime Minister Diefenbaker as saying any attempt to allocate construction of two $3,000,000 vessels to specific areas after tenders have been called would "create serious difficulties."

problems of higher wages and higher freight costs to the west coast," said Mayor Scurrell. "It's purely a question of price and it's a great handicap."

The mayor said the delegation used up every argument in an effort to convince the federal government that industry shouldn't be concentrated in the east, and that failure to secure ship-building contracts would mean loss of highly-skilled workers to the local industry.

"We were well received," he said. "But always it was price that proved the stumbling block. We can't do any more now than wait the cabinet's decision."

To See Bonner on Family Court

Oak Bay Wants More 'Dope'

Oak Bay council wants some more information from the attorney-general before it makes any decision regarding an area juvenile and family court.

"Three of us will be seeing the attorney-general as soon as we can get an appointment," Reeve George Murdoch said last night.

"We want more facts about the cost and other details," he said. Decision was made in committee Monday night.

The proposed court for Greater Victoria has so far won the approval of only Saanich and Victoria.

At Monday night's council meeting, Esquimalt decided to have Chief Gilbert Stancombe, who doubles as juvenile and probation officer, attend the Nov. 9 meeting to explain the situation.

Meanwhile, Reeve A. C. Wurtele was empowered to investigate the hiring of a probation officer.

B.C. Polio Situation Much Brighter

Deputy health minister Dr. G. F. Amyot said yesterday the polio situation in British Columbia has brightened. "It would look as if it is slowing down considerably," he said.

Only one new case was reported over the weekend, a six-year-old boy from Hope, bringing the 1959 count to 70 cases and 11 deaths.

Pat Bay Airport

Terminus Pledged

Start Likely Before March

A start is likely to be made before next March on construction of the new terminal building for Patricia Bay airport.

Mayor Percy Scurrell told the Colonist in a phone interview from Ottawa that he learned delays were caused by failure of government architects to complete working drawings for the air terminal.

WAY BEHIND

He said following a meeting yesterday with deputy transport minister J. R. Baldwin: "I was assured that the delay in construction of the new airport administration building was due entirely to the architects, who are way behind in getting out the plans."

The mayor said the deputy minister disclosed that funds for the project were approved in departmental estimates for the current year.

"If the department can get detailed plans in time, tenders will be called before the end of this fiscal year," the mayor said.

Mayor Scurrell, visiting the national capital as leader of a Victoria delegation seeking more work for local shipyards, took the opportunity to press for an early start on the airport project as well.

WAIT FOR A WHILE

During a recent visit here, Defence Minister George Peakes indicated proposed extension of runways and construction of the new airport terminal would have to wait for a while.

"This may not be the time," Mr. Peakes told a press conference, "for the federal government to go out and borrow money to carry out less urgent projects on the priority list."

Provincial Liberal Leader Ray Perrault, of Vancouver, said he did not enter the race for the Victoria riding because "there are too many good men here now."

Urging party members to support development of the American tourist trade which brought $108,000,000 into B.C. during 1958, Mr. Perrault called for an "all-out drive" that would involve spending more money on tourist advertising below the border and the establishment of a Canadian government travel bureau in San Francisco similar to those in Chicago and New York City.

He pledged Liberal support to any provincial and federal plan which would increase the tourist trade here and charged that B.C. must spend more than the $46,000 which went for tourist advertising outside the province this year.

Danger Mark Passed By Hurt YMCA Coach

Popular YMCA physical director Archie McKinnon, injured in a swimming pool fall, was reported out of danger by St. Joseph's Hospital authorities yesterday.

The report said he would be out of hospital in two or three weeks "barring unforeseen complications." It was the first official medical statement on his condition since he was hurt Oct. 14.

Pay for Schools, B.C. Told

DUNCAN—Now that the Social Credit government is out of direct debt it should finance school building programs from provincial revenue, Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce vice-president Will Dobson claims.

This method of financing would replace the present system of borrowing that is "a hazard to the provision of necessary and vital educational facilities."

The unusual proposal from the executive member is to be circulated to the chamber's members so they can discuss it and vote on it at the next meeting, Nov. 23.

Mr. Dobson said he made the proposal because "high interest rates in the bond market place a heavy penalty on borrowers."

This situation is likely to continue into 1961 and practically every school district in the province has a growing accommodation problem, he said.

Swing shifts into which some districts may soon be forced are "against the best interests of society, and are causing a disruption in the homes (in the districts where they are necessary) and in the lives of parents, teachers and pupils alike," his proposal states.

Mr. Dobson said it appears the government's revenues are still high with the result that the government has been able to spend record sums on public works.

He asked the Socialists to "give serious thought to a plan whereby funds for new schools would be available from normal provincial revenue, to be used to pay the full cost of new schools."

PORT ALBERNI—Alberni District High School's first community carnival is scheduled for today from 4 to 10 p.m. with a full program. Proceeds from the event will be used to expand the students' extra-curricular program and for school projects.

Highlight of the carnival will be a free competition with a new 14-foot Clinker-built motorboat as the prize.

DUNCAN—Douglas Edward Augustine, three-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Augustine, died yesterday at his parent's home on the old Island Highway near Cobble Hill.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p.m. in Mill Bay United Church, Rev. G. L. Gillard will officiate.

PARKSVILLE—This year the annual Harvest Supper of St. Anne's Anglican Church will be combined with the Sector Plan's Congregational Dinner and will be held at the Legion hall on Thursday commencing at 6 p.m.

The Sector Plan which has been in operation since September 30, will be outlined at the dinner and the workings of the project will be explained to parishioners. It is a plan for keeping in good financial standing and for awakening a greater interest in the work of the church.

PORT ALBERNI—A plea of not guilty was entered by Allan Willis Monday to a charge of attempted theft to a value of less than $50.

The charge involved chrome window mouldings on an old car. The case was remanded until this morning.

Newcastle Offered to B.C.

NANAIMO—The provincial recreation department will be asked to take over and develop Newcastle Island.

City council decided to make the request to the government, but also said the electorate would be asked to ratify this action at the polls.

Ald. Jack Parker felt this action was necessary because DUNCAN—W. F. Matthews, member of parliament for Nanaimo riding, thinks Duncan should have a giant flag pole as a symbol of its logging-lumber industry.

He suggested to the chamber of commerce Monday night that lumber firms be approached on the project and also on the possibility of establishing a lumber industry museum to illustrate its colorful past.

DUNCAN—About six guards are to be hired to patrol city streets on Halloween night.

They will probably be members of the city's outside staff. Patrols will be made in three trucks, with two men in each truck.

City clerk Gordon Berry said yesterday the patrols are the usual thing and have been done for years.

VANCOUVER—The British Columbia Court of Appeal Monday confirmed the conviction of Edward Charles Lyon Wilson of Ladysmith for a safe robbery 22 months ago.

Wilson was first found guilty of breaking into the Alberni District Cooperative Association building on May 20, 1958, and was sentenced by Judge Arnold Hanna to five years. The association's safe was blown open, and $650 cash and $1,038 in cheques taken.

Wilson won a rehearing because there was no record available of the first trial, the court stenographer having died.

He conducted his own appeals, but failed to upset his second conviction last May 22 by Judge A. J. Swencisky, who sentenced him at Alberni to three years.

PORT ALBERNI—A warning against exploding firecrackers in letter boxes and parcel post receptacles has been issued by postmaster E. L. Hammer.

Mr. Hammer said a number of incidents have already taken place.

"Fortunately no mail has been damaged so far, but one amounging crackers could start a blaze which would destroy a boxful of letters and parcels."

"It should not be necessary to point out that there are heavy penalties provided by law for persons convicted of damaging mail or post office property," he said.

ALBERNI—Ignio Pasqualini pleaded guilty in Alberni court Saturday morning to a charge of furnishing false information in connection with shooting of a lawn deer.

According to Game Warden George Vincent, Pasqualini had first insisted that an animal found in a vehicle in which he was riding had been struck by a car, but later had admitted that it had been shot. He was fined $25 with costs.

PARKSVILLE—A children's hobby show and an adult art display were highlights of a tea and sale of work held by Parksville Women's Institute at the Parish hall which raised $40.

NANAIMO—Police were looking Tuesday for a tall, fair-haired man they say has made a $500 cleanup passing counterfeit travellers' cheques here last week.

Trading Stamps Watched

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said yesterday that if trading stamps were to become a problem in British Columbia his department would take a new look at them with a view to outlawing them.

But he added that the subject hasn't yet appeared as a problem in B.C. and would be handled under the criminal code.

The Canadian Retail Merchants Association is trying to raise $5,000 in B.C., with which to wage a war against trading stamps.

Action was taken after the meeting learned that one eastern food chain has found a loophole in existing federal legislation aimed at making trade stamps illegal.

Resolution Drafted

East, West Set Scene To Disarm

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—East and West Tuesday night agreed on a United Nations resolution calling for complete world disarmament under effective control.

Soviet Bills Double U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The $186,000,000 Soviet budget announced in Moscow looks on the surface to be more than twice as large as the U.S. government's 1960 spending plan for $78,000,000,000. (See also Page 3.)

Knife-Waving Drunk Faces Cuban Trial

HAVANA (AP)—A man who staggered drunkenly toward Prime Minister Fidel Castro with a knife in his hand last week was indicted Tuesday on a charge of attempted assassination.

Roberto Salas Martinez, 44-year-old upholsterer, was arrested in a crowd that had gathered around Castro last Thursday night.

The Soviet Union and Western powers, led by the United States and Britain and including Canada, reached agreement in private sessions on the resolution which will be placed before the UN General Assembly's 82-member political committee today.

Terms of the resolution were not disclosed immediately but spokesmen said it does not give its blessing to any particular country's disarmament plan.

All proposals, including the one placed before the General Assembly Sept. 18 by Premier Khrushchev and the one outlined the day before by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, will be submitted to a new 10-nation conference to begin in Geneva early next year. Those plans also will be submitted to the 82-nation UN disarmament commission.

Besides Russia, the U.S., Britain and Canada, sponsors include France, Italy and Brazil. A U.S. spokesman said many other nations are expected to become co-sponsors, including India.

The main negotiators in the behind-the-scenes talks were Vasily Kuznetsov, Russia's deputy foreign minister who took the first initiative, and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Charles S. A. Ritchie, Canada's permanent ambassador to the UN, took part in talks among the Western countries.

806,978 Barrels Down The Hatch

OTTAWA (UPI)—Thirsty Canadians downed 806,978 barrels of beer in September, the Dominion Brewers' Association reported yesterday. The national trade association of the brewing industry disclosed that beer sales for the first nine months of 1959 were 6,947,598 barrels compared with 6,395,905 in the same period last year, an increase of some 8.6 per cent.

Halloween Firecracker

First Victim In Hospital

Halloween is still four days away—but already a small boy is in Royal Jubilee Hospital, threatened with loss of sight in one eye. Cause—one firecracker.

He is nine-year-old Larry Lyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lyne, 3204 Kingsley. His father yesterday was at sea with the navy, but his mother had a Halloween message for parents and children of Greater Victoria.

"Keep your children and firecrackers or other fireworks apart," she urged. "Make the message strong."

Larry and his brother and sister have never been allowed to have their own firecrackers or fireworks. Their mother and a neighbor would pool resources and put on a fireworks show—no firecrackers—for the youngsters on Halloween.

"Monday," said Mrs. Lyne, "Larry was on his way home from school when he found one firecracker. He brought it home, and got a book of matches and wooden penholder and took them outside."

"He took the nib out of the pen, and inserted the firecracker in the hole, then lit it, expecting it would fly away."

"We won't know until tomorrow how he'll make out. 'Don't let this, or anything like it, happen to others this year.'"

A woman cyclist was killed in East Lothian, Scotland, when a five-ton piece of a tree was blown down on her.

A truck driver at Kincardineshire, Scotland, was killed when gale-force winds hurled his van off the road.

... spur us on

U.S. Space Expert:

Don't Kid, We Lag

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Harold C. Urey said last night the Soviet photograph of the moon's far side was "an outstanding technical achievement" which should spur this country to greater efforts in space.

Urey, a Nobel Prize winner, is one of science's foremost students of the chemistry of the stars and the nature of the moon and planets. He agreed with other scientists here that the Russian photo is not detailed enough to warrant conclusions about the nature of the moon's other side.

TECHNICAL SKILL

But he said it was impossible to exaggerate the technical skill which enabled the Russians to get the picture at all.

"We are not. I think it will be years before we are."

"MARVELOUS"

Other astronomers, who did not want to be quoted by name, also stressed what one called the "marvelous technical accomplishment" manifested by the photograph.

One scientist said the technique used by the Russians could have tremendous military significance.

WORM-LIKE

Urey, who is visiting colleagues here, was particularly interested in the long worm-like marking in the photograph which the Russians said was a mountain range.

"If it is a mountain range," Urey said, "it is very different from any range on the front side. It is, perhaps, the most striking feature of the photograph."

MORE DETAILS

Urey added that "we cannot, however, come to any serious conclusions about the photograph until we get further details."

U.S. scientists hope the Russians will send them clear copies of the photograph for further study. One said he believes they will do that.

This scientist said he and his colleagues were especially impressed with the "attitude control"—the orientation of the satellite so that its lens pointed at the moon—achieved by the Russians. He said they apparently accomplished this with "jet controls."

This scientist called the photograph "a major step forward in the exploration of the solar system."

JOHN A. MCCONE
... position secure

Vital Phases

America Ahead In A-Race

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's atomic chief said yesterday that "we are ahead" of Russia in peacetime nuclear energy development.

The appraisal was given by chairman John A. McCone of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission who returned this week from a nine-day tour of Soviet nuclear laboratories and plants. He told a news conference that "our position is secure" in three vital phases of atomic development.

He referred to atomic fission power, research with atom smashers, and efforts to harness the H-bomb's thermonuclear fusion reactions for peacetime power.

But McCone said that when they want to, the Russians can get a program moving faster than the U.S. can.

No Free Land MLA Charges

Comox MLA Dan Campbell last night called on the provincial government to send its regional planners into the northern half of Vancouver Island and set up a plan for orderly regional development.

He asked the government to encourage other resource use, as well as forestry which now dominates the area.

Premier Bennett has set 1960 as target date for a start on a north Island road, but "there is not one acre of land available there on which to place a tourist resort or any other business," Mr. Campbell said.

"He said practically every bit of land in the northern half of the Island is held as forested area, either in private or public forest."

BUILD OWN HOME

"Even loggers can't obtain property of their own on which to build their own homes," he said. "At the moment no community could be developed except under company sponsorship. The basic problem is crown grants for any other use but mining and forestry are difficult, if not impossible to obtain."

He charged the big timber interests with adopting a "lord of the manor type of attitude." "This area differs little from the southern half of the Island and therefore one resource user should not dominate its development," Mr. Campbell said.

He called upon the government to release some of its crown land from forest reserves and make it available for settlement and diversified development.

RELEASING LOTS

A spokesman for the lands department said the government now is releasing a few lots of crown land in the Port Hardy area so residents may lease them for private dwelling purposes.

"A program of multiple use of the region should be encouraged by the provincial government," Mr. Campbell said.

He called for recreational land to be available for both private and public development.

"Opportunity for private enterprise in the area is certainly limited," he added. "Certainly 'logging' will always be the most important use of the area, but miners, recreation users, fishermen, farmers, plus all the service people who develop businesses in stable areas, should have an opportunity to help in the development of the area," Mr. Campbell said.

He said there is a limited amount of private property in isolated areas around Port Alice and Port Hardy, but it is very limited. "Although the area is the equal of the south of the Island in its recreation potential, there is no place where private enterprise could place a tourist resort," he said.

40 MILES NEEDED

Mr. Campbell said only 40 miles of new road is needed to open up more than 100 miles of Island. The rest is covered by a network of logging roads. "When is the crown going to establish basic access lines of road communications in the name of the public? When is it going to insist on public access over logging roads such as the Campbell River-Muchalet Arm road, the Nimpkish Valley road, and the Port McNeill to Port Alice road?" he asked.

"I think it is more than a coincidence that the timber companies have not been foremost in urging that road connections and stable communities be encouraged. They have not jumped up and down with glee at the thought of development of the north Island," he said.

"In the north Island there is no doubt that if you keep the people out and keep the roads from coming, the problems of the lumber firms will be kept to a minimum," he said.

Hid Under Bed

Little Boys Start Fire And Perish

SUMNER, Wash. (AP)—Two small boys, who apparently set fire to their home while playing with matches and then hid under a bed, were found dead in the charred ruins of the house here Tuesday.

Coroner Dr. Frank James said the victims were Larry Hammerberg, 5, and his brother Danny, 4.

Dr. James said the boys' bodies were found under a bed in an upstairs room. They died of asphyxiation.

The coroner said he believed the boys were hiding under the bed for fear of being discovered after playing with matches which set the front room curtains and sofa afire. Matches were strewn about the area where the fire started, James said.
